MORAN NAMED BY ACCLAIM

E. Gerry Brown of Brockton Nominated for Lieutenant-Governor and Full State Ticket Named in Record Time—Little Fight Over the Platform.

John B. Moran, District Attorney of Suffolk County, was nominated as the De mocratic candidate for Governor at the State convention at Tremont Temple at 2:12 o'clock this afternoon. There was no other name presented to the convention, and the nomination was made unanimous. George Fred Williams placed Mr. Moran in nomination.

E. Gerry Brown of Br ockton, widely known as a la bor leader, was nominated eight minutes later as Mr. Moran's running mate. His nomination was made unanimous by acclamation also, amid great enthusiasm.

Thomas L. Hisgen of West Springfield was nominated for Auditor. The rest of the ticket was then quickly selected.

The name of Mr. Brown was presented to the convention by John H. Mack of North Adams. David W. Murray of Hyde Park withdrew the name of Edward C. Jenny as a candidate and landed Mr. Brown. His nomination was seconded by Mr. McCue of Brockton.

The platform reported by the committee on resolutions was adopted without change, though not until after a spirited fight to change it by an organized claque sent to the convention hall to make trouble.

The resolutions were read by ex-Mayor Ramsdel of Lynn and the two concluding planks referred to William Jennings Bryan and William Randolph Hearst. Both men were praised as exemplary Democrats and the hope was expressed that Mr. Hearst would be elected Governor of New York.

The resolutions as read were put to the convention and adopted, but immediately Professor David P. Clark of Williams College, Williamstown, was recognized, and he moved that the report of the committee be reconsidered, objecting to the plank referring to New York politics. Daniel J. Kiley of Boston, in a speech from the platform, made a motion that Mr. Clark's motion be tabled. When he finished Congressman John A. Sullivan took the platform. He was followed by E. Gerry Brown, James H. Mellen and John A. Coulthurst, all of whom were in favor of the report.

At the conclusion of Representative Mellen's speech, in which he favored the platform as presented, Representative John A Coulthurst of Boston mounted the platform and in a concise, ringing speech asked the convention not to reconsider the platform as read and adopted. A motion was then put to reconsider the platform, but this was overwhelmingly lost, and the platform stood adopted.

George Fred Williams then took the floor to nominate John B. Moran.

MORAN'S NAME THE SIGNAL FOR CHEERS.

John F. Feeney, former Mayor of Woburn and one of the managers of the Moran campaign, who was made temporary chairman, was selected as the permanent chairman of the convention. In his speech he declared that there was not a vestige of doubt that Moran was the choice of the party as a candidate for Governor.

When Mr. Feeney mentioned the name of Mr. Moran there was an outburst of applause that ended with three rousing cheers. When Mr. Feeney finished former Mayor Walter Ramsdell of Lynn read the platform as the report of the Committee on Resolutions.

Mr. Ramsdell read the document with one elocutionary effect. As the various planks were enunciated the delegates cheered them with enthusiastic applause. The paragraphs of the platform relating to William Jennings Bryan and William Randolph Hearst were equally applauded.

NOMINATED FOR GOVERNOR BY THE DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION TO-DAY.

Daniel H. Toomey keeps tabs on the man from the heart of the Commonwealth.

AUTOIST FINED $50, APPEALS

William A. Scharton, a New York lawyer, who is a guest at the Hotel Lexington, was fined in all $50 by Judge Westworth in the Municipal Court to-day. He was charged with operating an unregistered automobile, with reckless driving and with drunkenness. He appealed and was locked up while friends sought a bondsman. Scharton, several other men and a woman caused excitement at 11 o'clock last night on streets near the Longwood street police station by the speed and erratic course of the auto in which they were riding. It hit the curb opposite the Hotel Touraine on Tremont street and the woman and several men were thrown out. The woman was unconscious and taken away in a cab.

ELIOT MEMORIAL DEDICATED OCT. 13

A memorial to the late Charles Eliot, son of President Eliot of Harvard University, the first landscape architect to the Metropolitan Park Commission, will be publicly dedicated on the summit of Blue Hill Saturday afternoon, October 13, at 2 o'clock. Invitations have been issued by the committee which has the affair in charge. The exercises are open to the public.

EXPLOSION IN MINE; 3 DEAD

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., Oct. 4.—The first reports of the explosion in the Pocahontas Consolidated Coal Company's mine at Pocahontas, last night, were greatly exaggerated, as almost by miracle almost the entire shaft escaped the explosion.

Three are known to be dead. The number of injured is unknown. A special train was run from here with material to aid the rescuers.

ORDER MILK FARMS CLEANED UP RIGHT

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—Dr. W. E. Plaskett, inspector of meat and provisions, and Agent C. C. Crowley of the Board of Health are inspecting milk farms here and in Berlin, Bolton, Boylston, Sterling and Lancaster, where they have found some poorly equipped places, which they have ordered placed in proper condition.

Chief Planks in the Democratic Platform

The Democratic party must have no allegiance with the plunderers of the people, but must bring them to account for wrongs already done.

We require the public ownership and operation of public utilities in nation, state and city.

Eight hours for labor; protection of women and children against overtime work; the absolute indefeasible right to trial of facts by jury in equity cases involving labor injunctions.

Stringent laws as to the raising of the price of necessities by conspiracy or other unlawful methods, with imprisonment penalties only.

Laws more just and liberal to the people, providing for the taking of utility plants.

Repeal of the legislative agent act and enactment of laws making professional lobbying a crime, with imprisonment penalties only.

Abolishment of capital punishment, that we may no longer be barbarians.

TEDDY, JR., AND CHUM GO BEFORE GRAND JURY

Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., son of the President of the United States, with his friend, Meredith Blagden, who was coxswain of the Harvard crew that rowed in England, went before the Grand Jury to-day to testify in the case of Patrolman Fraher of the Lagrange street station, who was injured by students last Thursday night. Shaun Kelly, room mate and friend of young Roosevelt, has already been arraigned on the charge of assaulting Patrolman Fraher, and his case was continued for a week.

With the two students when they went to the Grand Jury room escorted by District Attorney Moran were Chief Inspector William H. Watts, Lieutenant Frank I. Jones and Patrolman Grace of the Lagrange street station.

It was the first case taken up by the Grand Jury for the day.

Young Roosevelt and Blagden arrived at the District Attorney's office a few minutes before 9 o'clock and for a time sat in the outer office along with a lot of other people who were waiting to be called in cases which the District Attorney has in hand. Each had a few school books with him and some study was started.

The word spread that President's son was in the District Attorney's office and the crowd began to come in to have a look. The President's son was visibly annoyed at the number of police officers and other people that he saw having a look at him and sought assistance to prevent it.

Assistant District Attorney Dwyer was appealed to. He was asked by young Roosevelt if it would not be possible for him and his companion to get somewhere out of sight, where they would not be stared at so by the crowd. Mr. Dwyer gave them the use of his office, and there they remained until Mr. Moran came to tell them that the Grand Jury desired their presence.

Neither of the lads would have a word to say about the case.

RESTORE PEOPLE'S RIGHTS, SAYS PLATFORM

Declaration of Democratic Principles in Line with Reform Utterances of John B. Moran in Beginning of His Fight for Nomination

Following is the platform adopted by the Democratic State convention in Tremont Temple to-day:

The honesty and morality of our Republic and State rest with the hard-working, law-abiding masses of the people.

To restore our government to the control of such people is the present function of the Democratic party.

Recent revelations of the methods of high finance have uncovered the pretenses of the powerful hypocrites who have been posing as custodians of the national honor.

It is our duty to wrest the government from the grasp of these jugglers with industry and money, who have, out of the toil of labor, drained mighty fortunes through the vile channels of their monopoly, privilege, discriminations, frauds, thefts, poisonings and violence.

The Democratic party must have no alliance with the plunderers of the people, but must bring them to account for wrongs already done.

Our legal machinery works mercilessly upon the poor and weak, but fails to operate upon open and defiant violations of law by the rich and powerful.

To bring back our government to equal justice for all men we must teach wealth to obey the laws or suffer drastic penalties for crime.

Public Ownership of Utilities.

Our candidates, our organizations, our platform, must bend to these purposes without compromise, evasion or pretense.

Our candidates must be selected, not to gratify personal ambition or provide campaign funds, but solely to restore justice to the people.

It will no longer suffice to make laws; men with a grim purpose and undaunted will must be elected to enforce them. To these ends we require:

A Governor fearless and faithful, resolute and determined, free from alliance with corporations and trusts, uncontrolled by politicians, a servant of the people, recognizing his official obligations and evading none of them, neither skulking behind an unauthorized shield of hedges nor cringing in cowardice at the responsibilities of his office, a man who knows the law and dares to enforce it.

Direct popular control of the law-making power in the granting of franchises and privileges through the right to initiate and reject such legislation at the polls, and to recall faithless legislators.

The public ownership and operation of public utilities in nation, State and city.

Eight hours for labor, protection of women and children against overtime work; the absolute indefeasible right to trial of facts by jury in equity cases involving labor injunctions.

Taxation which shall obtain full contributions from wealth and success and bear lightly upon labor and the poor. Full and fair taxation of wealth. Decrease in the indirect taxes on the middle classes, labor and the poor. Enforced returns and uniform taxation of personalty. Repeal of recent laws that select the rich for exemption.

Drastic law against private monopoly, with imprisonment penalties only.

Reciprocity and Revision of Tariff.

Reciprocity and tariff revision.

Free hides, free coal, free lumber, free iron and free wood pulp.

Legislation to save Massachusetts manufacturers from their present handicap by unjust tariff on the raw material of their product.

Fostering international commerce by generous and friendly concessions in the adjustment of our tariff to all nations opening to us their markets for our products.

Tearing down the tariff walls which entrench monopoly and sustain enormous fortunes exacted from honest labor and flaunted in the face of the toilers by their gross and vicious possessors.

Stringent laws as to the raising of the price of necessaries, by conspiracy or other unlawful method with imprisonment penalties only.

Laws more just and liberal to the people, providing for the taking of public utility plants.

The prevention of child murder by more effective abortion laws.

Laws providing imprisonment penalties for wilful negligence by public officials in the performance of their duties.

Repeal of the legislative agent act and enactment of laws making professional lobbying a crime, with imprisonment penalties only.

Laws providing for liberation of persons awaiting trial charged with misdemeanors, and of all minors under seventeen years awaiting trial for any crime, in the discretion of the District-Attorney, without bail, that the poor and friendless may not suffer unjust and oppressive imprisonment.

For Nominations by Popular Vote

Laws providing that all offenders on whom fines are imposed may in all courts have liberty without bail for a reasonable time in which to earn the fines.

No corporation or trust tools for the judiciary; that it may be free from the suspicion of being a place of reward for faithlessness to the people.

Abolishment of capital punishment, that we may no longer be barbarians.

Defence of all divorce cases to be conducted by District Attorneys, that collusion extensively practiced now may cease.

Repeal of legislative immunity act, that criminals may no longer bribe and be bribed with legal impunity.

The nomination of all candidates for elective office by direct vote, that the will of the voter may not be thwarted by the purchase and sale of delegates.

Laws providing that the District Attorney shall appear for all persons whose liberty is endangered by insanity proceedings, that no person may be confined unjustly.

Liberal treatment of veterans of the Civil War within the limits of judicially declared law.

Single-headed commissions, the appointee to be removable at the will of the Governor, that corporate subserviency by officials may cease.

Shorter term of service for grand jurors, that criminals may not control their action.

Laws defining what conduct of grand jurors shall be criminal, and providing penalties therefor.

Stringent laws against bucket shops.

Laws as to employers' liability for accidents more protective of employes.

Law providing that judges, in setting aside verdicts, shall in writing assign the reason therefor, reviewable by the Supreme Court.

No interference with legislators except by written message.

Praise for Efforts of Bryan and Hearst.

More stringent laws as to receipt, expenditure and accounting of money by campaign committees.

The Democracy of Massachusetts is proud to swell the note of praise for the distinguished Nebraska Democrat, America's great Commoner, whose moral leadership has been of worldwide influence, and whose voice has been raised for the uplifting of humanity in every land, whose nomination by our party for the highest office in the nation's gift was proof of our party's wisdom, and whose defeats only endeared him the more to the Democracy, which admired him for all that it cost him to be right. While William Jennings Bryan lives we shall not want for an exemplar of all that is best and truest in Democracy.

The Democracy of the Empire State of New York has nominated for Governor a man whose tremendous and effective efforts for the advancement of Democratic principles have been the wonder of our modern political history. All that great wealth, great industry, ability, faith and courage could do in expounding sound political principles and exposing to the people's gaze the enemies of the republic, William R. Hearst, the Democratic candidate for Governor of New York, is now doing. We congratulate the Democracy of New York upon its wise selection of a leader, and send Massachusetts' hearty wish for Mr. Hearst's election.

John O'Gara of Spencer. Hon. Henry Hobbs of Wenham. Ex-Mayor W. L. Ramsdell of Lynn. Mayor John P. Kane of Lawrence.

SOME OF THE DEMOCRATIC WAR HORSES AT THE CONVENTION.

CONVENTION WAS QUICK TO GET BUSY

The Democratic State Convention was called to order in Tremont Temple to-day at 11:45 o'clock, just three-quarters of an hour late.

Josiah Quincy, chairman of the State Committee, appeared on the stage, accompanied by other party leaders, and rapped for order, after which he called for nominations for temporary chairman.

Feeney Quickly Takes the Helm.

Jeremiah McCarthy of Ward 10, Boston, was recognized, and he said:

"I place in nomination for temporary chairman John P. Feeney of Woburn."

The nomination was made unanimous. Mr. Feeney then took the chair and the convention got under way at once.

Later Mr. Feeney was made permanent chairman.

The delegates were late in assembling because of the long and exciting "night before" at the Revere House. The principal point upon which there was a difference of opinion was in the selection of the State Committee.

There was very faint applause when Mr. Quincy took his seat on the platform. He sat in a large leather armchair in the middle of the stage. Behind him were John P. Feeney of Woburn, James H. Vahey of Watertown, Charles C. Paine of Hyannis, John J. Cahill of Peabody, John J. Teevans of Boston and others.

Edward H. O'Brien of Worcester was nominated by Daniel J. Kiley as secretary and unanimously elected, amid more applause.

On motion of James H. Vahey a committee on credentials of seven members at large and one for each congressional district was appointed by Chairman Feeney.

BROWN FOR SECOND PLACE.

While no one anticipated that there would be anything of a cut-and-dried nature about the big gathering, it was the consensus of opinion that these men would be selected as the leaders on the ticket:

For Governor—John B. Moran of Boston.

For Lieutenant-Governor — E. Gerry Brown of Brockton.

For auditor—Thomas L. Hisgen of West Springfield.

Open Gallery to Public.

The committees on resolutions, permanent organization and to name the balance of the State ticket were appointed in the same way, seven at large and one from each of the fourteen congressional districts.

A committee to bring in a list of members-at-large of the State Committee was also named by the chair.

Mr. Merritt of Chelsea moved that the upper gallery be opened to the public, and it was carried. On motion of Mr. Cahill of Peabody the name of Mr. McGrath of Boston was substituted for that of Mr. Mack on the committee on credentials.

Hon. John A. Coulthurst mover that Congressman McNary be named to fill a vacancy on the committee to bring in a balance of the State ticket. Mr. McNary declined. Senator Mellen of Charlestown proposed another name but meanwhile Mr. Johnson, the missing member, entered the hall and no substitution was necessary.

The committees retired and the delegates listened to the band while waiting for the reports which, Chairman Feeney promised, would be delayed but a few minutes.

Hon. John A. Keliher was applauded as he took his seat on the platform.

James H. Vahey at 12:15 reported for the committee on credentials that 736 of the 1,039 delegates to the convention were present. He stated that credentials were still coming in and the committee would report further later.

First Real Applause.

Chairman William A. Davenport for the committee on permanent organization recommended that the temporary organization be made permanent. The recommendation was adopted with hearty applause.

Chairman Feeney at once began his speech. When within a moment he mentioned the name of John B. Moran, the first real enthusiasm of the day was manifested. The delegates applauded with hands, feet and voices, winding up with three rousing cheers.

While Walter L. Ramsdell of Lynn was reading the platform, Daniel H. Coakley was conspicuous. He talked excitedly to Chairman Feeney, who sat there listening with impassive face. Mr. Coakley spoke in low tones and could not be heard two feet away. After nearly ten minutes he left the platform evidently greatly disturbed.

The advocacy of the repeal of the legislative immunity act was loudly applauded, as was the plank urging that the lobby be abolished and the professional lobbyist declared a criminal.

Great applause followed the complimentary reference to William Jennings Bryan, perhaps two score jumping to their feet. Mr. Ramsdell was forced to cease reading until the applause stopped.

A reference to William Randolph Hearst drew a storm of cheers, while a few in the gallery and on the floor tried vainly to drown the cheers with hisses. They were quickly shouted down, however, the Hearst admirers being in the majority.

Pandemonium on Floor.

There was a turbulent scene for a few minutes, and cheers, yells and hisses were mingled.

Professor Clark of Williamstown arose in the gallery and demanded that all reference to New York politics be stricken from the report, as this was a Massachusetts convention.

Instantly there was wild disorder. The voice of the delegate in the balcony was drowned.

Mr. Clark at once made his way to the platform and was given recognition. While he was pushing through the crowd there was pandemonium on the floor.

When quiet was restored Mr. Clark said: "The resolutions meet with my hearty accord, except that I regard the reference to politics in New York as inexpedient. This is a Massachusetts convention, and whatever our personal views may be, we are here only to consider Massachusetts issues."

Threatened to Clear Gallery.

Daniel Toomey of Worcester rose to a point of order, but the chair ruled it not well taken. Mr. Clark moved that the vote whereby the resolutions were adopted be reconsidered. It was seconded, and Daniel J. Kiley of Boston, a member of the committee on resolutions, was recognized. The noise became so great when he tried to speak that Chairman Feeney threatened to clear the galleries. Every time Mr. Kiley started to speak there were yells that drowned his voice.

Finally he moved that the motion to reconsider be laid on the table.

After Mr. Feeney had pounded for order he put the question on Mr. Kiley's motion. A rising vote was called for. It resulted in the defeat of the motion, and the question came on Mr. Clark's motion to reconsider.

Congressman John A. Sullivan was recognized.

Cries of "Why? Why?" interrupted Mr. Sullivan when he said he had not always favored Mr. Moran as a candidate. He, however, pledged his support to the candidate of the party.

"Democracy is being reorganized," he said, "and all must accept the new regime if they wish to remain in the party."

E. Gerry Brown, of Brockton, was recognized and loudly cheered.

"Since when has it been out of order for the Democrats of one State to approve the course of the Democrats of another State?"

Mellen Praises Platform.

His praise of William R. Hearst was greeted with mingled cheers and hisses. He declared the objection to the report was an attempt to split the party and that by unity the party could win.

Representative James H. Mellen of Worcester was then recognized. He declared he was a Bryan man and always had been.

He said that the platform was the best ever known in a Democratic convention and that every principle had been advocated by the Hearst papers. He pleaded with the delegates not to allow the men who disrupted the party in 1896 and 1900 to do the same now.

Mr. Clark demanded the question, but the chair recognized the Hon. John A. Coulthurst, a member of the committee on resolutions.

He spoke for the report as read and declared that the convention should not give the New York Democracy a slap in the face.

The question of reconsideration of the vote by which the resolutions were adopted was put and overwhelmingly defeated, a shout of "No" going up that shook the rafters.

William P. Connery of Boston was recognized to read the names of State committeemen at large who were chosen.

James M. Curley of Ward 17 moved a recess, but it was defeated.

Williams Cheered.

Prof. Clark had been trying for some time to continue his fight against the resolutions, but was finally quieted.

Chairman Feeney announced that nominations were in order, and recognized George Fred Williams.

Mr. Williams was given an ovation as he stepped on the platform at 1:48 in response to Chairman Feeney's call for nomination of candidates. It lasted several seconds, when quiet was restored and the assemblage listened attentively to his words, interrupting only to applaud.

Healey, Rockland.

APPLAUD QUINCY AS HE APPEARS; SILENT AS HE DISAPPEARS

Immediately after Josiah Quincy had called the convention to order he left the platform. He was as cool and collected as usual and while applause greeted his arrival there was not a single hand as he mysteriously disappeared from view.

His resignation of the chairmanship of the State Committee was in the hands of the convention, to be made known during the proceedings.

FEENEY VOICES CALL OF DEMOCRACY FOR MORAN

Sketched from life b Boston American staff artist.

RAPID FIRE IMPRESSIONS OF SOME OF 'EM HERE FOR CONVENTION

Permanent Chairman Defines Issues of Campaign in Stirring Speech and Declares That District Attorney Has Every Prospect of Being Elected Governor.

Democracy Calls for Moran As Its Candidate, Says Feeney

There is not a vestige of doubt that the Democracy of the State demands as its candidate for Governor, John B. Moran.—Speech of Chairman Feeney.

John P. Feeney, as permanent chairman, said:

"This convention meets with no uncertain purpose. It is the result of a campaign in which there has been no juggling of principles and no concealment as to policy or candidates.

"We have not been elected as delegates, in my judgment, to determine for the party what or who is wanted. Our constituents have determined these things for us with practical unanimity, and every one knows his duty.

"There is not a vestige of doubt that the Democracy of the State demands as its candidate for Governor John B. Moran. (Prolonged applause and cheers lasting several minutes.)

"In order that there could be no misunderstanding as to his purpose, he put forward a declaration of his principles for popular decision and that declaration has been approved by the Democracy of Massachusetts.

Ask for His Election.

"We now turn from the party to the people and ask for his election as Governor of this Commonwealth. (Applause.)

"We enter the campaign with every assurance of success. Our candidate is hampered with no trades or concessions, and even those who opposed him in the party can add nothing to the protests they have already made.

"There are no forces which lurk within our ranks to do us harm.

"Our party stands for the direct election of United States Senators by the people." (Applause.)

For Laws by Popular Vote.

Mr. Feeney further advocated the enactment of laws by popular vote if the Legislature should refuse them. The party, he said, favors direct primaries for all nominations and for strict scrutiny of all expenditures at primaries.

He scored the public service corporations and declared that the people themselves should control what these corporations now control.

When, in this convention, he mentioned the name of Bryan there was hearty applause and three cheers.

He declared that all highways should be restored to public control, and cited the railroad situation in this State.

Chairman Feeney referred to the successful candidacy of John B. Moran for district attorney as proof that the people believe in him.

"We hope to present this man as the embodiment of the fundamental doctrine, as he was swept into office last year, so next November he will be advanced to higher duties in the service of the people of the whole Commonwealth.

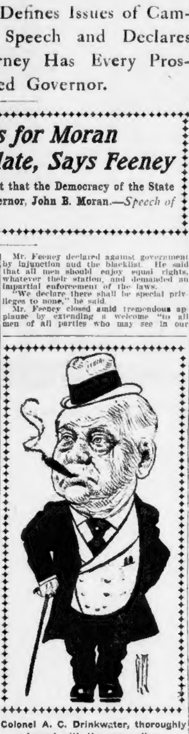
"Equal Rights to All."

"When we demand equal rights to all, we mean not only all men, but all property: not only the rich and poor alike, but those who own the commodity of labor as well as those who possess the capital."

Mr. Feeney declared against government by injunction and the blacklist. He said that all men should enjoy equal rights, whatever their station, and demanded an impartial enforcement of the laws.

"We declare there shall be special privileges to none," he said.

Mr. Feeney closed amid tremendous applause by extending a welcome "to all men of all parties who may see in our platform and candidates the good of the Commonwealth and the welfare of our beloved republic."



Colonel A. C. Drinkwater, thoroughly pleased with the proceedings.

Chairman Walter L. Ramsdell of the Committee on Resolutions was frequently interrupted by applause as he read the platform, especially the planks favoring the "eight-hour law," and other organized labor movements, and who Moran was referred to as "one who knows the law and dares to enforce it."

The report of the committee presented many planks which are already in the platform of the Independence League.

WILLIAMS ELOQUENT IN NAMING MORAN

The Hon. George Fred Williams, in placing John B. Moran in nomination, spoke as follows:

"Fellow delegates and fellow Democrats: Four years ago I offered from this platform a declaration of principles which contained the vital parts of what I believe will be the platform of this convention; it was sneeringly and insultingly cast aside and I could hardly be heard in its defence. Permit me to treat it as proof that confidence in the people is not misplaced when to-day I speak to friendly ears for a like platform and address a convention of delegates which no sophistries can swerve from their duty to the people who elected them.

It may fairly be said that this convention is rallying about a personality; it may even be admitted that a mere personality is a doubtful dependence for popular action, but one man never becomes a dominant factor in a political situation unless the personal element happens then to be of greatest importance, and that man typifies the pressing needs of the people. Sometimes a personality becomes essential on account of the opposition to be overcome.

As I am about to present a candidate to this convention I beg a few moments in which to consider the forces against which he is to contend and the popular demands which he typifies.

Fight Is Against Greed.

In espousing the cause of the people we imagine that we are fighting against men. I tell you it is not so. Whether in the contest for delegates to this convention or in taking our candidate before the people we are opposed not to men but to the soulless creature which is called a "corporation" which feeds upon money and dies when money ceases to feed it. It is these which block the ways of human liberty and breathe their corruption into our politics, into parties, primaries, elections and legislatures. We have created them by law and they come back to curse our national life. When they enter a political contest, it is never for human rights, never to succor the weak, never to assert truth, justice, charity or honesty, but to make gain, gain, gain, though they leave behind them wrecks of humanity and of institutions.

Seek to hold them to any moral accountability and they answer truly, "We have no charters for religious, moral or patriotic practices; no mercy moves us; love is left out of us; there is no shame which we can feel; we have no bodies which you can punish."

When we fight for the people those who ... are with few exceptions, servants of these creatures. Cannot their money buy all talent; can they not pay all men with their wealth, power and honors or frighten with their penalties? No, thank God, not all! Some remain to lead the people faithful, unbribed and unterrified. I am to name you such a man.

Wherever you find a crook in public life, the money of some corporation is paying his way. Our farmers, our artisans, our small tradesmen do not knowingly choose such to represent them but the corporations want corrupt men and maintain them in power because honest men will not serve them. It is not the immorality of the masses which makes politics disreputable and drives decent men out of public life.

I wish to trace the debauchery of our politics to its very source.

Above and beyond the fabric of the corporation are men and women whose fortunes they serve, many of them respectable, educated, refined, church-goers and moralists. These are they who always doubt whether the people have the moral and intellectual force to govern themselves, but when we show that their money is used to corrupt our politics and debase our institutions, can we count upon their support to stop the practice? Notorious as is this misuse of corporate funds, has any stockholder or officer prosecuted or sued for the offence or proposed votes or by-laws to prevent it? Not one; yet they calmly disclaim all moral responsibility, the officers because they are servants of the stockholders, and stockholders because the officers are responsible. That there is nowhere any moral responsibility in a corporation is a lie which has cost humanity more than all the armies of the world.

We may as well at the outset realize that we shall appeal in vain to the great investing class to stay the corrupting work of their corporations and lift up the standards of our public life. When any man attacks this corruption where stands the investing class? I say it combines against him, the press it controls gives him no support; its power is used to wash white the offence, the accuser is held up to ridicule and contempt, while the offenders seem not to be dishonored and suffer no social or business degradation.

Be not deceived! This contest against political corruption must be waged without the aid of a powerful class, which blessed by fortune should lay the purest offerings upon the altar of their country.

Crime Against Humanity.

The crimes for which our prison doors open are mainly directed against individuals in the community, but these great corrupters of public life are committing a high crime against every man, woman and child in this generation and the next; against the State and against the Republic.

The truth has now begun to dawn upon our people that those who are most accountable for the degredation of our business and political life are not at the bottom but at the top of our social strata. Where, then, shall we turn for rescue? There is but one answer: It is to the honesty, decency, morality and the patriotism of our laboring and producing classes, and these must be substituted as leaders of our public life for those who practice corruption as a branch of business administration. This whole revelation has been dreadfully impressed by the recent development of crime in high circles; by the guilt of insurance magnates; by the criminal practices of railroad officials; by the lawless and destructive tyranny of monopolies, and, above all else, by the fact that not one of these great criminals can be brought within the walls of a prison.

If it is the present necessity of our public life to substitute the moral and legal standards of the masses of our people for the debased standards of the new dominating class, need I say that a mass movement of the people is necessary and that strong leadership is demanded.

The People's Champion.

This convention, I believe, represents the mass movement, and I am about to name its leader. For the great task which lies before us permit me to picture to you the man who is needed as a guide. He is a man who respects the law and obeys it; to whom great and small criminals are alike; who stands in fear of no social or professional ostracism; who cannot be browbeaten or driven; who dreads no odds; who refuses to lead with enemies behind him; who is a Democrat because he believes in Democratic things; who denies no man or party provided they share his purposes; who treats political pledges as sacred; who works night and day; who has a heart for mercy and a determination for justice; who hates corruption with a mortal hatred; who despises hypocrisy and hypocrites; who rejoices in battles with the strong; who cannot be mastered; who will not trade or compromise; who speaks frankly; who fights in the open; whom money and honors cannot buy; a man who esteems truth more than etiquette; who prizes dignity of character above that of manner; dignity of conscience above that of speech; who is loyal to his friends and his convictions, firm against his enemies; the dread of wrongdoers; trustful of the people; a man conscious of a mission to do the work we have to do to-day. I name this man for Governor of Massachusetts, John B. Moran of Boston.

George Fred Williams, the man who nominated Moran.

Moran, the Leader, Fearless, Honest, Able—G. F. Williams

For the great task which lies before us, permit me to picture to you the man who is needed as a guide. He is a man who respects the law and obeys it; to whom great and small criminals are alike; who stands in fear of no social or professional ostracism * * * * the dread of wrongdoers; trustful of the people; a man conscious of a mission to do the work we have to do to-day. I name this man for Governor of Massachusetts, John B. Moran of Boston.

MORAN BUSY WHILE CONVENTION CHEERS

While over one thousand delegates cheered for John B. Moran in the Democratic State Convention in Tremont Temple this afternoon, the District Attorney was busy personally probing the charges of intimidation of voters made by Daniel J. Kiley of Ward 8 against Mayor Fitzgerald before the Grand Jury; sifting out the facts in connection with the alleged assault upon a police officer by companions of Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., on Boston Common a few days ago, and it is supposed investigating the charges of bribery made against two of the jurors in the famous Crocker will case. The Grand Jury has not had a busier day since Moran took up the duties of the office.

Senator Taylor, a political writer on one of the morning newspapers, was called to the Grand Jury room this afternoon, it is supposed in connection with the Crocker jury bribing case.

In the investigation of the charges made by Mr. Kiley, the district attorney summoned some of the employes of Mayor Fitzgerald's office, and all of the newspaper reporters assigned to City Hall. They are to tell what they know about the famous editorial that appeared in the Republic, Mayor Fitzgerald's paper.

SOBBING BRIDE SENT TO JAIL

Pretty Mary Newman, twenty-three years old and a bride, was sentenced to one month in the Charles Street Jail by Judge Sullivan in the Municipal Court to-day, although she wept and screamed and her husband, fine-looking and a Hotel Touraine waiter, pleaded with the court in her behalf. "She didn't mean to do it," said the husband. "She's my wife—it's her first offence—please let her go."

When sentenced Mrs. Newman threw herself into her husband's arms and wept convulsively. The Newmans live at No. 54 Waltham street.

The young woman was arrested on Washington street by Inspector Knox for taking a pocket book from Mrs. A. W. Bakerman of No. 178 Devonshire street.

TO NAME ROBERTS.

Congressman Ernest W. Roberts is the unanimous choice of the Seventh Congressional District Republican Convention, to be held in the City Auditorium, Melrose, at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

SOCIETY WOMAN IN COURT AS WITNESS

Miss Beatrice A. Sturgis, a Back Bay society woman, appeared in the Municipal Court to-day to prosecute Edward McCoy, whom the police say is homeless, on the charge of stealing her pet bull terrier. She let the dog out of her home at No. 211 Commonwealth avenue and McCoy took the pup away. He was found with the dog by Policeman Glawson of the Boylston street station, and in court was sentenced to two months in jail for larceny, and two more for drunkenness.

LYNN WATER BOARD FLAYED IN REPORT

COMMISSION SAYS METHODS OPENED DOOR TO GRAFT IN WALDEN POND CONTRACT.

LYNN, Oct. 4.—The report of the special committee appointed by Mayor Barney to investigate the charges of graft made against the Lynn Water Board was made public to-day, and President William B. Littlefield with his fellow members of the Water Board, is publicly censured for negligence, carelessness and questionable methods in administering the affairs of the board.

Died During Hearing.

Besides President Littlefield, the members of the board are James Burns, Thomas P. Nichols and Stephen W. Dearborn. Charles E. Sprague, a wealthy box manufacturer, the fifth member, died during the public hearings of heart disease.

The Walden Pond dam was built by Contractor Frederick E. Shaw, of Providence, R. I., and the investigating commission reports that the work was performed negligently, not according to specifications and the relations between the contractor and the Water Board were questionable. While the members of the board are not charged with accepting any personal pecuniary benefit from the dam contract, they are charged with failure to exercise the usual caution in making contracts and failure to safeguard the interests of the city.

"Open Door for Graft."

In part the findings are: "That whatever may be said in excuse for the water board, it is a matter of common knowledge that loose, inefficient and irresponsible administration, as disclosed by our investigation, opens the door wide for abuses commonly designated as graft."

The commission is convinced, it reports, that the Water Board, in dealing with contractors, generally exceeded its authority, and made it appear that they were solicitors for themselves as well as the city. The pumping machinery is reported to be antiquated and cost as much, if not more, than modern machinery. This machinery was installed by A. J. Lorentz & Son of Brooklyn, N. Y., and paid for before the Water Board inspected it or gave it an official trial.

Aroused Suspicion.

The commission charges that even after President Littlefield's attention was called to negligence on the part of the contractors by Inspector James H. Robinson, employed by the city, he took no steps to employ a remedy. Inspector Robinson, who was soon after discharged from his position, was an important witness at the hearings held by the commission.

The commission also finds that the payment of $20,000 to Contractor Shaw in 1902 was under such circumstances as to invite suspicion that the parties concerned were as solicitous for their own personal interests as for the city. It is charged that the contractor employed material in the construction of the dam that was not suitable for a water-tight embankment, and that the slope paving is not as called for.

The people of Lynn now anxiously await action by Mayor Barney.

Success in the Gulf Coast Country

Every Monday and Thursday there will appear in the columns of this paper an example of what has been done in farming in the Gulf Coast Country on the Brownsville Line

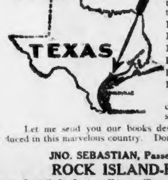
Sugar Cane from One Acre Brings $240.

Mr. P. B. Blalack, of Brownsville, Texas, raised sixty tons of sugar-cane on one acre last year. He sold his crop for $240. He raises more cane to the acre than is produced in Louisiana—and raises better cane.

One reason for his success is the richness of the soil in the Gulf Coast Country. With this soil, the mild weather all the year round, and the plentiful supply of water for irrigation, the farmer raises immense crops. Garden truck of all varieties is raised in the Winter and marketed in the early Spring when it brings the highest price. Any truck farmer can easily make more than $100 an acre. If you will write Mr. Blalack at Brownsville, he will tell you more about the advantages of this country.

Wouldn't you like to have a small farm in the Gulf Coast Country where success does not depend on uncertain weather with irregular rainfall?

Now the land is cheap and you can get it on easy terms. Twenty acres will cost you about $500. The cost of clearing it is about $5 an acre. The cost of water for irrigation varies. You may want an artesian well of your own; you may get water from some river; or you may get it from your neighbor. But the cost is not great, and those who have tried it have netted from the first crop a sum which has paid all expenses and left a good surplus.



Take a trip down there and see for yourself—that's the best way. Every first and third Tuesday of each month, we will sell round-trip tickets to any point in the Gulf Coast Country and return, at the following rates:

From Chicago,	$25.00
From St. Louis,	20.00
From Kansas City,	20.00
From Peoria,	23.00
From St. Paul,	37.50
From Minneapolis,	27.50

These tickets will be good 30 days and they will permit you to stop over at any point.

Let me send you our books describing the wonderful crops produced in this marvelous country. Don't delay, write me to-day.

SUBMARINE TAKES FIRST OCEAN DIP

'Girl of Twelve Christens Torpedo Boat Octopus As It Takes the Water.

The United States submarine torpedo boat Octopus was launched at the yards of the Electric Boat Company in Quincy at 11:37 a. m. today.

Miss Frances Webster, the twelve-year-old granddaughter of Frank G. Webster of Kidder, Peabody & Co., christened the steel tube the vessel as it left the ways, and everything was carried out with success.

The ceremony was not of a public nature, only a few outsiders being present. Admiral Bowles was present as a representative of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company, and Vice-President L. Y. Spear of the Electric Boat Company was in charge of the general arrangements.

Keep Details Secret.

The Octopus is believed to be about eighty feet long. No information regarding the construction of the submarine is given, either by the builders or by the government, as such matters are always kept secret for obvious reasons.

As she left the ways the bow of the Octopus dove into the water like a turtle and it looked for a minute as though she would be submerged. She quickly righted herself, however, and rode gracefully on the water, being towed at once to the fitting out dock where she will be made ready for her trial in a few weeks at Peddock's Island. The Cuttlefish launched a few weeks ago will have her trials at the same time.

After the ceremony the launching party were entertained at lunch by the Fore River Company.

Guests at Launching.

Miss Webster, who christened the boat, was accompanied by twenty young girls.

Among the invited guests present were Commander E. H. Scribner, Commander John L. Dow, Naval Constructor R. M. Watt, Lieutenant W. W. R. Purdy, Lieutenant G. S. Radford, Lieutenant Ernest R. Pollock, Lieutenant T. S. Gardner, Captain T. Fuill, Captain M. Saito and Captain S. Yoeglin of the Japanese navy, Dock Engineer T. Hashimoto and Civil Engineer M. Komai of the Japanese government, F. A. Taylor of Waterbury, Ct., C. B. Denney of Milton, W. Prince Clark of Roxbury, Nathaniel Horton of Hyde Park, Commander Albert Greaves, inspector of the ordnance department of the Newport torpedo station; Lieutenant Commander J. S. VanDuzer, assistant inspector of the Newport torpedo station; Lieutenant Commander J. E. Chase, Lieutenant C. F. Nelson of the submarine Torpedo, Lieutenant E. S. Shapleigh of the submarine Shark, C. B. Amory of Readville, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Cross, Rear Admiral F. T. Bowles, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Wellington.

SEEK RELIEF FOR HORSES

A petition signed by H. C. Merwin of the Boston Work Horse Parade Association, E. W. Hopkins of the Boston Ice Company, Edward A. Winchester of the Armstrong Transfer Company, C. S. Spencer of the Adams Express and C. H. Emery of the American Express has been sent to Mayor Fitzgerald, asking that a new pavement be laid on Bowdoin street. The petition states that the present pavement is so slippery, especially in Winter, that it is a constant source of danger.

$14,000 RACE GOES TO SILIKO

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 4.—Siliko, bay son of Moko and Silicon, won the $14,000 Kentucky Futurity yesterday afternoon at the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' Association's track from the best field of three-year-olds that have joined the starter this year.

No victory in the Futurity in years was more impressive than the win of Siliko, yet the race was marred by an accident that resulted in the injury of W. H. McCarthy, who drove Siliko.

60 LOST IN SHIPWRECK

HONG KONG, Oct. 4.—Sixty persons are reported to have been lost in the foundering of the steamer Chinese Merchant, which went down off Hainan Island on September 29, while on her way from Hollow and Hong Kong. Captain Clifton is reported among the missing.

The steamer Kobsicheng rescued twenty-three of the crew, chief engineer Dowse and two women.

RAIN 8 DAYS; CROPS HURT.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 4.—For eight days rain has been falling throughout the Mississippi Valley, and reports from isolated districts confirm earlier statements of heavy damage of cotton and corn.

CLARK'S DEBTS ARE $123,049

In the bankruptcy schedule of debts and assets of Marcus C. Clark, proprietor of Clark's Hotel, Washington street, filed today, debts of $123,049.96 and assets of $300 are shown.

On petition of L. Speidel & Co., A. J. Houghton Company and Conway & Co., Clark was adjudicated bankrupt September 24.

Of the debts $121,471.90 is unsecured and the balance, $1,575, is owed for taxes. The only assets are household goods.

Among the large unsecured claims are: Reuben Ring & Co., No. 39 Commercial street, merchandise, note and open account, $22,067.32; Peter Mackie, New York city, merchandise, $17,481.09; C. M. Ryder, No. 62 Faneuil Hall Market, merchandise and borrowed money, $4,241.49; Winn, Ricker & Co., No. 93 Faneuil Hall Market, merchandise, $5,088.74; F. H. Johnson & Co., No. 114 Faneuil Hall Market, merchandise and borrowed money, $5,763.21; Cobb, Aldrich & Co., No. 120 Washington street, merchandise, $5,607.77; Boylston National Bank, No. 45 Bedford street, borrowed money, $5,000.

BLESS PAIR IN AUTO WEDDING

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—"May your married life be like a broad, level macadamized road along which you will travel in perfect happiness."

With these words did Justice of the Peace James Ludlow end the pretty little marriage ceremony in Jersey City. Cupid was in an automobile and wore goggles for the occasion, so the big-hearted magistrate rose to the occasion and gave his final admonitions to the happy pair in the auto language.

The bride was Miss Anna Ryan of Hackensack, N. J., and the groom was James Chichester of New York.

Charcoal Kills Bad Breath

Bad Odor of Indigestion, Smoking, Drinking or Eating Can Be Instantly Stopped.

Sample Package Mailed Free.

Other people notice your bad breath where you would not notice it at all. It is nauseating to other people to stand before them and while you are talking, give them a whiff or two of your bad breath. It usually comes from food fermenting on your stomach. Sometimes you have it in the morning —that awful sour, bilious, bad breath. You can stop that at once by swallowing one or two Stuart Charcoal Lozenges, the most powerful gas and odor absorbers ever prepared.

Sometimes your meals will reveal themselves in your breath to those who talk with you. "You've had onions," or "You've been eating cabbage," and all of a sudden you belch in the face of your friend. Charcoal is a wonderful absorber of odors, as every one knows. That is why Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges are so quick to stop all gases and odors of odorous foods, or gas from indigestion.

Don't use breath perfumes. They never conceal the odor, and never absorb the gas that causes the odor. Besides, the very fact of using them reveals the reason for their use. Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges in the first place stop for good all sour breath and belching of gas, and make your breath pure fresh and sweet, just after you've eaten. Then no one will turn his face away from you when you breathe or talk; your breath will be pure and fresh, and besides your food will taste so much better to you at your next meal. Just try it.

Charcoal does other wonderful things, too. It carries away from your stomach and intestines, all the impurities there massed together and which causes the bad breath. Charcoal is a purifier as well as an absorber.

Charcoal is now by far the best most easy and mild laxative known. A whole boxful will do no harm; in fact, the more you take the better. Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges are made of pure willow charcoal and mixed with just a faint flavor of honey to make them palatable for you, but not too sweet. You just chew them like candy. They are absolutely harmless.

Get a new, pure, sweet breath, fresh en your stomach for your next meal and keep the intestines in good working order. These two things are the secret of good health and long life. You can get all the charcoal necessary to do these wonderful but simple things by getting Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges. We want you to test these little wonder workers yourself before you buy them. So send us your full name and address for a free sample of Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges. Then after you have tried the sample, and been convinced, go to your druggist and get a 25c box of them. You'll feel better all over, more comfortable, and "cleaner" inside.

Send us your name and address today and we will at once send you by mail a sample package, free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 60 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

NEWS of the THEATRES

"Paste" is to be revived by the John Craig company at the Bijou next week. It has not been played in Boston for years. "What Happened to Jones," this week's play, is drawing crowded houses.

At the Majestic, David Warfield's definition of the old German music master is one of the most delicate characterizations seen here in years. There is a long line in front of the box office all day long.

A novelty is to be offered at the Park square rink soon in the form of a masquerade on skates. The minister has consented to be the host on skates, and any persons desiring to be "hitched" in this unique way may send their addresses to the rink management.

The Plays are creating a sensation at Keith's this week by their clever rejoue of "Thanatopsis." A concert for the benefit of St. Mary's Infant Asylum will be given at Keith's next Sunday evening.

Robert Hilliard has made a pronounced success of his little play, "As a Man Sows," at the Orpheum this week. Brandon Hilliams, impersonator of Dickens's characters, is the feature next week.

Sam Bernard could not possibly be funnier than he is in "The Rich Mr. Hoggenheimer," the laughing success of the season at the Hollis Street Theatre. It is a jolly musical farce.

"The Daughters of Men" will not need to pack their trunks when their engagement at the Colonial ends Saturday evening, for they open at the Park Theatre on Monday next for a series of matinee performances. The wonderful cast will be unchanged.

Lottie Williams and her up-to-date slang phrases in the comedy drama, "My Tom Boy Girl," has made a tremendous hit at the Grand Opera House. The specialty numbers are a big feature.

Rarely does an opera deserve more than a month's run here in Boston, but "The Student King," Savage's new production, does. It is too loud that it cannot run here all Winter, for its music is beautiful, its scenic mounting and costumes decidedly artistic and the principals and chorus strong and finely balanced.

For five weeks this season "The Lion and the Mouse" has been the most talked of play in Boston. It is a play that every spectator takes delight in recommending to his friend. Therefore, it is no wonder that the Park Theatre is crowded at every performance. There is but a very brief line of it which is not in it.

Fred Irwin's Majestic Burlesquers at the Palace Theatre are giving the brightest kind of an entertainment. The burlettas are full of really funny situations, and there is a whole stageful of girls that are really attractive.

Superb scenic mounting and clever acting characterize the comedy drama, "The Peddler," at the Boston Square Theatre this week.

Forty gay girls are features at the Howard this week in the burlesque part, and there are fifteen strong acts in the vaudeville section. The bill is in every respect an old-timer.

It is the play, not the player that attracts thousands every year in Boston to see "The Old Homestead." William Lawrence seems to have continued the popularity won by Denman Thompson, and the players surely know that it is not the old player whom they see. The play has but one scene and that comes "The Social Whirl."

No one could find fault with the splendid bill given by the Champagne Girls at the Gaiety this week. The burlesque in which George B. Alexander, Exler and Webb, the Three Mowatts and the rest are cast could help being good.

"Breaking Into Society," with the Four Mortons, at the Globe, is even better than last year, but is one of the brightest and most musical plays the Globe has presented for years. Thomas E. Shea comes on Monday in repertoire.

Popular interest in Randlon, the armless and legless wonder, at Austin & Stone's Museum continues unabated. There is a strong list of other attractions in the curio hall and theatre.

Exceptionally good acting may be witnessed at the Castle Square Theatre this week, the stock company appearing in Augustus Thomas's comedy, "The Other Girl." "The Mandarin," by Hall Caine, is the bill for next week.

PROBE HUGE BOILER FRAUDS ON U. S. SHIPS

Tube Company Employe Confesses He Aided in Substitution of Defective Material.

MILLIONS ARE INVOLVED

By Boston American Leased Wire.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Oct. 4.—Secret service agents of the United States government, working under orders from the Department of Justice, are investigating charges filed with Secretary of the Navy Bonaparte that the United States has been made the victim of a gigantic fraud.

It is charged that several of the largest and most costly battleships in the United States Navy are equipped with thousands of boiler flues which were never subjected to the government tests, and that many of them were delivered to the government and placed in the vessels after they had been rejected as defective by the government inspectors.

The warships directly involved in the charges are the new battleship Maine, battleship Georgia, armored cruiser Colorado, armored cruiser Pennsylvania.

The charges are against the boiler flues placed in these vessels at the time they were built, but also affect nearly every vessel in the American Navy which has had flues installed since 1898.

The author of the charges, which were submitted to Secretary Bonaparte through United States Senator J. B. Foraker of Ohio, is Frank L. Emmett of Sharpsville, Pa., who was in charge of the shipping department of the Shelby Steel Tube Company at Greenville, Pa., when this company made the tubes for four warships.

If the investigation now being made substantiates the charges made by Mr. Emmett, it will probably mean that several million dollars worth of boiler work in the finest ships of the navy will have to be torn out, as it is urged that these vessels and every man aboard them are in constant danger of destruction because of the defects in the tubes supplied to the government.

According to advices from Washington, substantiation of the charges are to be followed at once by proceedings against the men responsible for the fraud.

Confession Goes With Charges.

Mr. Emmett, author of the charges, confesses that, as head of the shipping and finishing department of the Shelby Steel Tube Mill, where the tubes were made, he systematically deceived the government inspectors and superintended the covering up of defects in tubes that had been rejected and which were later used to fill government orders.

Emmett declares that acting under instructions from his superiors in the mill he forced open the private desk of the government inspectors and taking therefrom the government stamps, used them as he pleased in the preparation of tubes to be tested by the inspectors instead of those that had been stamped by the government agents and left to be prepared for the tests.

Emmett further charges that when tubes had been loaded for shipment, and he found there were not enough accepted tubes to fill the order, acting under instructions from his superiors, he broke open the cars after they had been sealed by the government agent, and after supplying enough tubes which had been rejected as defective, he closed the car and sealed it with the government seals, which he secured by forcing open the inspector's desk, which stood in the superintendent's office in the mill.

CAROLINA SHOW A BIG FAVORITE AT FOOD FAIR

Its Wealth of Agricultural and Mineral Products Attracts Interest of Crowds.

People from all over New England are visiting the gigantic Boston Food Fair that is being held in the Mechanics building. Among the immense crowds there are noticeable a large number of farmers.

The reason for this?

Answer: The North Carolina exhibit in Science Hall. In long glass cases on either side of the hall are shown products of the wood, field and soil of North Carolina. A perfect wealth of mineral and agricultural products is exhibited. Gold, iron, rare jewels, granite, cotton, tobacco, rice and all kinds of fruit are displayed. Farmers have heard of this exhibit and are eagerly looking over the specimens.

Then, of course, there's the Boston school-teacher, who visits the North Carolina exhibit for the educational benefit. Also the Bostonian who has made a hobby of geology is there day after day, carefully examining the mineral specimens.

This year's fair has already proved to be a record breaker for attendance. Every night the band plays the "Star Spangled Banner," and every night there follows uproarious applause. A favorite selection is "The Chimes," when soft, low-toned bells are rung.

The big crowd still "hikes the pike." They part cheerfully with their dimes and nickels for the sake of ringing a knife, pulling the funny man's whiskers, rolling the balls at the Japanese booth, and being told in the fortune teller's booth that they will marry a handsome partner, come into great wealth, always enjoy good health and be happy.

MALONE, 96 DAYS LATE, MOVES ON NEW HAVEN

ATTORNEY-GENERAL TAKES ACTION ON EVE OF REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

Attorney-General Malone Takes Action After 96 Days!

On June 14, three and a half months ago, the BOSTON AMERICAN made formal application to Attorney-General Malone that he bring immediate action to force the New Haven Railroad to disgorge the street railways it had "merged" in violation of the laws of the Commonwealth.

On June 30 the State Railroad Commissioners, at the instance of Governor Guild, began an investigation of the legality of the alleged "transfer" of the New Haven's electric trolley holdings.

On October 3, ninety-six days after the original complaint of the BOSTON AMERICAN, the Attorney-General took the matter into court for a decision.

The Republican State Convention is held to-morrow, when Governor Guild and Attorney-General Malone will seek renominations.

Why did the Attorney-General delay?

Attorney-General Dana Malone has applied for an injunction to issue against the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, for exercising corporate functions not authorized by its charter or by the laws of the State in holding certain street railway properties.

Information that violation of the laws existed in this connection, was filed by the BOSTON AMERICAN on June 14, last, but the Attorney-General did not see fit to take action until after his attention had been called to the matter by Governor Guild, who referred the complaint to the Railroad Commission. This body made an investigation and the findings were reported to the Attorney-General. The action of yesterday followed.

The New Haven road is charged with having usurped corporate franchises not conferred upon it, and by so doing intentionally violating the anti-trust laws of the Commonwealth.

Two Suits Brought.

Two separate suits are brought. In the first the Attorney-General is named as the complainant, and William D. T. Trefry, State Commissioner of Corporations, is named in the second suit. Both suits are filed with the same object in view, namely, to compel the New Haven road to give up its holdings in electric roads. The Worcester & Webster and the Webster & Dudley Street Railway companies are named in the complaints. The complaints ask for the dissolution of the two companies as corporations on the grounds that they have violated the law in transferring their capital stock to the Consolidated Railroad Company, a Connecticut corporation.

The information upon which the suits against the road are based was in the hands of the Attorney-General three and a half months ago. The evidence was carefully collected by the BOSTON AMERICAN and presented to the Attorney-General. At that time he told the BOSTON AMERICAN that he was very busy, but would attend to the matter "in a few days." That was ninety-six days ago.

At the Republican State Convention to be held to-morrow, Governor Guild and Attorney-General Dana Malone will seek renomination.

Attorney-General Malone delayed his investigation of the railroad trust's grab of the little trolley lines from week to week. The BOSTON AMERICAN gave generous publicity to this overdue of the Attorney-General, and President Mellen announced in August that the holdings of the New Haven road in the subsidized trolley lines had been sold to a "voluntary association."

Railroad Felt Secure in Position.

The New Haven road evidently felt secure in its position with the "voluntary association," for few particulars regarding the "dissolving merger deal" were given out. It was announced, bluntly and with no unnecessary frills, that the New Haven road had righteously stuck to the straight and narrow path, and held no more trolley line stock.

But the Attorney-General has brought suit against the road, nevertheless, and it is now proposed to investigate the exact relations existing between the New Haven road and trolley line companies operating in this State.

The bill of complaint specifically charges the New Haven road with enjoying the privileges of charters and franchises granted to other traction corporations, illegally and without right, since January 1, 1906. Specific instances are not contained in the document.

It was pointed out that the Consolidated road, being incorporated under the laws of the State of Connecticut, was a foreign corporation.

Attorney-General Herbert Parker says it as his opinion last year that the road had no right to acquire control of Massachusetts trolley lines and operating corporations. It would be illegal for a Massachusetts corporation to so control chartered and franchised traction lines, and it is equally illegal, if not a more flagrant violation of the laws, for a foreign corporation to do so.

STUDIES OF DR. MUCK, SYMPHONY LEADER.
Sketched by Boston American staff artist.

HERR MUCK SAYS BOSTON'S ORCHESTRA ONE OF FINEST

Famous German Music Director Arrives in City. Ready For Symphony Concerts.

By Morton Birge.

Der Boston Symphony Orchestra ist eines der besten in der welt.

Der Herr Conductor Doctor Karl Muck of the Boston Symphony expresses it as his Teutonic opinion that our esteemed musical body is one of the finest there is. For that reason, he argues, Der Herr Direktor Conried of the Metropolitan Opera House in New York to the contrary notwithstanding, that Boston must be a good musical town. Jah!

Dr. Muck—it seems to be pronounced like the double "oo" sound in "soon," he gaskommen zu Boston, or words to that effect.

Anyhow, Dr. Muck, of Berlin, also Frau Muck, in fact in town, ready to take hold of his new contract, by special dispensation of His Gracious Majesty, the Kaiser Wilhelm, to conduct the Boston Symphony through the coming year. The royal permit was necessary, as Dr. Muck was conductor of the Imperial Orchestra of Berlin before he came here. He is in America on a year's leave of absence.

Dr. Muck is rather distinguished looking, quite bejeweled, musical, of course, and very close-cut and healthy appearing. By his own declaration he is fond of hunting—birds and small game in the Austrian mountains, also of horseback riding.

"Automobiling?"

"So expensive," says the Herr Conductor Doctor Muck.

Democratic and Affable.

He was a very democratic and affable man who received an artist and reporter in his suite in the Hotel Pontiac, No. 333 Commonwealth avenue. Fortunately the artist brought his Detective. He, the artist? said "Herr Muck." The dark Bavarian features of the new Symphony conductor flashed into a smile and a greeting. Then there were cigarettes out of a hammered silver, turquoise-studded case. It seems that the cigarettes are of the same brand that the Sultan Abdul Hamid of Turkey gives to the Kaiser. They are of a rather delicate flavor.

Dr. Muck had been unpacking several trunks.

"There was a delay at the dock. The customs inspectors took so long."

One trunk went lost, as it were, but fortunately was recovered.

Dr. Muck was dressed in blue serge with tan shoes. Over his waistcoat a fine-link, gold watch chain flowed with abandon. In his old rose, small cravat was a jeweled scarf pin with a head shaped like a coronet. His cuff links were a pair of fleur-de-lis of gold, studded with small diamonds and with the links connected by slender gold chains, the latter bearing smaller diamonds. There were a few rings.

"Symphony Cannot Be Improved."

The new conductor is a man of medium height, slender, with sharply chiselled features, high forehead and hair worn somewhat long. He is quite filled with interest of this new country, which he has never seen before, yet slow to comment and planning no radical changes so far as his professional work goes.

"The Boston Symphony Orchestra," he says through the interpretation of the artist, "is ideal in every way. I do not plan any changes. I might use works of new composers. But, so far as the work of the orchestra goes, as I have known it, it cannot be improved in any way."

This from the man who is the Kaiser's own musical director and who directed the production of "Parsifal" at Bayreuth for seven years, even before the Herr Direktor Conried ventured it on Boston.

"You have met Herr Conried?"

"No."

"You have heard of him?"

"Oh, Jah!"—with a flash of white teeth.

Then the story of what Herr Conried had said of Boston and its lack of appreciation of the Conried "Parsifal," followed by the praise of Boston by Dr. Muck as a city which could support the Boston Symphony Orchestra, "times der besten in der welt."

Two Are Whole Family.

Dr. Muck is about 47 years old or so. Mrs. Muck seems quite a bit younger. She likes music, though she does not play. She is fond of literature and literary things. There are no children, so when Dr. and Mrs. Muck are here the entire Muck household is with us.

Dr. Muck is a stranger here, too. He knows Manager Ellis of the Symphony Orchestra, of course, but has no social acquaintances in the city, not yet. Nor hardly in the country, for that matter. He is nearly all confined to matters outside of his professional duties. Already, on his first morning in Boston, he was preparing for a tour of the city under Manager Ellis's guide, that he might become acquainted with the new community whose musical pet he is to direct this season.

It hardly seemed fair to ask Dr. Muck what he thought of this country. He had been here hardly one day and his principal introductory experience was having one trunk lost.

Man Journeys 6,000 Miles to Wed; Girl Rejects Him

Pretty Woman Ceased to Love While Her Sweetheart Toiled in Alaska.

QUINCY, Oct. 4.—After having travelled almost 6,000 miles to wed pretty Emeline Porter, for whose future comfort he has toiled in the frigid regions of Alaska for the past four years, Frederick K. Fostrum yesterday took the train from Quincy a heart-broken man and still unmarried.

Four years ago young Fostrum met Miss Porter, one of the cashiers on the grounds of the world's fair at Buffalo. Between the two it seemed to be a case of love at first sight, and before the fair was over their engagement was announced.

Soon after, Fostrum was appointed to the position of manager for a firm which practically controls the grocery trade of Alaska. With many protestations of love to his fiancee he set out for his far Western post. Weekly love letters followed.

The date of the marriage was set for the first of October and Fostrum arrived at the home of the bride's sister last week only to be told by Miss Porter that she could not marry him, simply because she had ceased to love him.

Miss Porter said to a reporter: "I feel certain that, though I cannot marry Mr. Fostrum, I cannot marry anyone else."

IRISH LEAGUE HAS FETE AT ATLANTIC CITY

New Jersey Governor Welcomes Seven Hundred Home Rulers to State.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 4.—The convention of the United Irish League of America is holding its closing exercises today in Atlantic City. In a special train over the Reading Railway, the delegates left Philadelphia this morning for the seashore, where they were met at the station by carriages and driven to the St. Charles Hotel.

Among the 700 delegates arriving here were T. P. O'Connor, M. P., and his wife; Michael J. Ryan of Philadelphia, president of the league; Vice-President William Temple Emmet, New York; Michael J. Redding, Baltimore; Edward Dorcy, St. Louis; Daniel Hanrahan, Chicago; Mayor John Fitzpatrick, New Orleans; John Purrey Mitchell, New York; Secretary John O'Callaghan, Boston; W. Bourke Cochran; the Right Rev. Charles McEvoy, New York; the Right Rev. Dennis O'Callaghan, D. D.; D. F. J. Timmons, Dr. T. J. Dillon, Michael J. Jordan, Dennis O'Reilly, Boston; the Rev. James T. O'Reilly, Lawrence, Mass.; Mark H. Corcoran and Patrick H. Duane, Waltham, Mass.; John J. O'Connor, Rhode Island Falls, Vt.; the Rev. John C. Walsh, Providence.

Ovation for O'Connor.

The home rulers spent most of the time sight-seeing, taking dinner at the hotel chosen as headquarters.

Mr. O'Connor, on whom, next to John Redmond, Irishmen of the world pin their faith and hope in the struggle for home rule in the British parliament, received almost a continuous ovation as he and his wife promenaded the board walk.

The feature of the day was the mass meeting this afternoon on Young's Pier. Among those who spoke were Envoy O'Connor, President Ryan and Secretary O'Callaghan.

Governor Stokes of New Jersey addressed the visitors, extending a hearty welcome to the State.

Michael J. Ryan had been president less than an hour when he appealed to the generosity of the delegates for financial assistance for the cause and $70,000 was pledged in twenty minutes, the first pledge of $10,000 coming from Delegate Fitzpatrick of Boston.

Mr. O'Connor will remain at Atlantic City until Saturday when he and his wife will go to New York, where he is to deliver an address before the United Irish Societies on Sunday.

Boston Men Officers.

The following officers have been elected: President, Michael J. Ryan, Philadelphia; Vice Presidents, Patrick Egan of New York, Michael J. Redding of Boston, Edward Dorcy of St. Louis, John Fitzpatrick of New Orleans; Secretary, John O'Callaghan, Boston; Treasurer, T. S. Fitzpatrick, Boston. The national executive committee was re-elected.

Gentlemen:-

We are very much pleased with our new system of gas mantle lighting--at both our Tremont Street and Copley Square stores. The light is particularly pleasing and we have been told that our Copley Square store is the best lighted in Boston.

Boston, Sept. 19th, 1906.

Mr. Edgar Wrightington, Sec'y.,
Boston Gas Company,
Boston, Mass.

Dear Sir:

In response to your request for an expression of our belief in gas engines, we take pleasure in writing our experience.

Our present plant of two 25 H. P. Westinghouse Gas Engines coupled direct to 15 V. W. Crocker Wheeler multipolar 120 volt compound generators was put in operation the first week of January, 1906. Since then the plant has operated continuously with a minimum amount of trouble and very satisfactory economy.

When taking electric current from the Edison Company for lighting purposes, our average cost was 8 1-2 c per K. W. hour; operating with gas engines the cost is 2 3-4 c per K. W. hour. At the present rate the plant will pay for itself in less than two years. We estimate the depreciation to be not more than 3 per cent a year.

We have no hesitation in recommending gas engine power in preference to steam or electricity for a primary producer.

Trusting that these facts may sufficiently portray our enthusiasm for gas engines, we remain,

Respectfully yours,

E. T. Slattery Co.

Do you use ELECTRICITY because you are SATISFIED with the GLARE and the EXPENSE, or because you do not realize that the MODERN gas mantle light gives a SOFTER, much MORE PLEASING and BETTER DIFFUSED light than electricity, at ONE-THIRD the cost?

THEODORE METCALF COMPANY, whose letter is reproduced, are among a FAST-INCREASING NUMBER of well-known merchants who now wonder how they ever COULD HAVE USED ELECTRICITY AT ALL.

If you want to COMPARE the effect FOR YOURSELF, of lighting with GAS and ELECTRICITY, see our EXHIBIT at the FOOD FAIR. The ELECTRIC LIGHT looks PALE in COMPARISON.

USE GAS THE MODERN FUEL

The direct connected GAS ENGINE, in its MODERN FORM, furnishes the MOST RELIABLE and ECONOMICAL supply for power and electric light.

During the last fiscal year the INCREASE in horse power of gas engines installed amounted to over THIRTY-EIGHT PER CENT. Most of these installations were SUBSTITUTIONS for CENTRAL STATION SERVICE, and have proven UNIFORMLY SATISFACTORY to those MAKING the change.

That E. T. SLATTERY COMPANY are WELL PLEASED with the service given is shown by their letter, reproduced above.

Watch these columns for OTHER LETTERS similar to above, and if you want further information, send for one of the FORTY REPRESENTATIVES.

Deprived of Mother's Love, Boy Accused of Killing Father Found Home Only a Sad and Desolate Place

The eyes are soft and gray. They are set wide apart and look at one in a frank, open and apparently honest way. There is nothing of a shifty character in them. They are eyes that light up with laughter or quickly fill with tears as the emotion seizes the boy.

While the mouth is not what would be regarded as particularly strong, there is determination written in the thin lips that have a habit of coming together and stiffening when Edgar talks about the action of the police in arresting him. The mouth is wide, and the lips are gracefully curved.

The ear is large and thick. It flares out from the side of the head and is one of the conspicuous characteristics of the boy. While it is rather thick, it is no way ungainly or out of proportion. It is distinctly the ear of a good-natured boy.

The nose is rather long and thin. There is little about it to show pugnacity. It is not the nose of a person who would be likely to force himself into another person's business.

FOUGHT HIS OWN BATTLES AND SOUGHT CHEER AMONG HIS FRIENDS AND NEIGHBORS.

By Rev. Albert E. George

WHAT meaning had that sweet word "home" for Edgar Meikle, whose life is now overshadowed with a serious charge?

That "home" that he left every morning for school, after having helped his father to prepare his scanty meal. In fact, he did most of the house keeping, and long before he left the house, he did many a duty that a mother would be happy to do for her home.

Edgar had no mother to bid him good bye daily as he went to school.

No fond, tender hand smoothed his locks or loving eyes looked him over to see that he was all right as he went with other boys into the schoolroom.

Whatever of this, he did, was done after he had helped in getting breakfast, and putting the few dishes into the sink would then hurry away to join the joyful throng of other boys whose mothers had kissed them and sent them away from their presence with the reminder that "they be good to-day."

No mother's voice ever lingered in Edgar's ear. He bore his loneliness as best as he could, and when time was too heavy after doing his chores, late in the afternoon, he would go opposite to No. 20 Congress street, where Mrs. Gaudreau would welcome him and cheer him up.

"Took Pity on Him."

"Yes, often," said Mrs. Gaudreau, a good motherly woman with a kind sympathetic expression, "would he come over to see my Albert. They were chums together. I never saw anything wrong in him. I took pity on him, for you know he had no mother.

"It's awful to see how lonely he would get. Why, he'd come over here and sit by his window and wouldn't say a word. Then I would say to him: 'Edgar what's the matter?' He would look up and say nothing, but I knew he was lonely. I could see it in his face.

"Now, there's one thing he wouldn't do. He wouldn't tell a lie. Once my youngest boy came to me crying, and he said: 'Edgar punched him.' Well, I went out and I found him standing near a corner. I asked him, 'Did you strike my boy?' He said he was throwing stones and he told him to stop and took him by the arm and sent him home.

"Now, he never denied anything that he did. This I know, and my boy tells me so too."

"Well, Mrs. Gaudreau," I asked, "did you ever see anything about the boy that would give you the impression he was bad."

"No, not at all, sir. Why, I used to pity him when I would see him nearly every evening just before it got dark, waiting upon the door step for his father to return.

"Wanted to Help Father."

"You know, boys would come up to him and wanted him to go with them, but he would say: 'No, I'm waiting for father to come home.' I used to see him sweeping the rooms, and cleaning up, and I always felt so sorry for him.

"The time his father died, I took him in here and cared for him, but long before this, I think he got tired of going to school and he wanted to work. I know he stayed away from school, and he wanted to help his father.

"Edgar stayed out several nights after nine and found the doors locked. He then slept in an unoccupied house. I did feel so sorry for him then, for I don't think he was disobedient."

Mrs. Gaudreau feels keenly the shame that has come to the boy, who has been quite a favorite with her. All her children flocked around me, and said something in his favor. As one hears the neighbors speak about him and his presence, in the neighborhood of Congress street, everyone has something to say about the difficult surroundings in which he was placed.

Compelled often to get his own meals, to make his own bed, to plan for himself in different ways, must have been very trying to a boy of his years. The whole story tells us of the value and importance of the mother in the home. The father has his place, but no home can be what it ought to be to be without a mother's influence.

The boy who has to fight his battles at any early age without a mother's help is to be pitied.

There is no training of the right type without her care and oversight, and the boys to-day who are blessed with mothers caring for them, watching them leave their presence as they go to school every morning, and welcoming them back, are the boys who need to be happy and contented.

Edgar Meikle had no mother in his home. He felt it. He liked to go into other homes and watch the mother there and when he returned to his apartments on Congress street, saw the fire out, and knew it had to be made and the dishes arranged on the table, and other things put together for the meal before his father arrived, he must have longed for the happiness of other homes, a mother's love, devotion and advice.

SEEK TO RELEASE BOY FROM SALEM BY GIVING BONDS

Special to the Boston American.

It has become known to-day that one of the pieces of evidence on which the police will rely in the prosecution of Edgar W. Meikle, the boy now in Salem jail waiting trial charged with shooting his father a year ago, is that the leather holster of the revolver used was found in a tool chest used by the boy.

This appeared in testimony at the inquest, being testified to by officers and admitted by young Meikle. He said the holster had been long separated from the pistol, and that he had used it as a plaything.

This, with the direction of the wound, as if the shot was fired by some person other than the victim, alleged conflicting statements made to the officers, the boy's disinclination to go to school and fear of his father, the presence of a letter said to have irritated the father, the authorship of which was never positively determined, hard words from father to son on the day of the shooting is the bulk of the government's case against young Meikle.

Those authorized to act for the boy are inclined to ask the court formally to either hasten the trial, or, failing in this, seek to break over the old Massachusetts rule and admit Meikle to bail.

The boy's guardian, Joseph S. Trimble, and his wife, Catherine Trimble, assured a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter that they could secure bail to any amount if the Court would permit it. Church men and women, school teachers, merchants and property owners, it is declared, have offered to join in furnishing the bond.

Attorney Richard Sisk for the defence says:

"We have debated that subject at considerable length. It is necessary in a special session on murder charge that two judges should sit. That will incur a re-arrangement of the Superior Court circuit. It may be some time before the case can be heard.

"It is within the discretion of the Court whether to admit young Meikle to bail. I think the subject will be presented in due form and the request made at an early date."

LILLIAN RUSSELL ROBBED.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Oct. 4.—Lillian Russell, the actress, was robbed of a satchel containing $5,000 in money and diamonds yesterday on a Big Four train en route to Columbus. An unknown man picked up the satchel and left the car at Dayton while Miss Russell was looking out of the window.

LABOR NEWS

ALLIED PRINTING TRADES UNION LABEL COUNCIL BOSTON, MASS. 96

The Wage Earners' Central Club vigorously denounced the anti-labor record of Senator Daniel W. Lane last night, and decided to do everything possible to prevent his re-election from the Eleventh Congressional District. Alderman Fred J. Kneeland of Painters' Union No. 11 and J. Frank O'Hare of Printing Pressmen's Union No. 67 were indorsed for the Board of Aldermen.

A vote of thanks was tendered Carpenters' Union No. 889 of Brighton for assistance rendered in forming a club in that district. At a mass meeting of the Ward 25 club to-morrow night in Red Men's Hall, Brighton, addresses will be made by President John E. Potts of the Central Wage Earners' Club, Secretary-Treasurer D. D. Driscoll of the State branch, A. F. of L.; M. J. Birmingham of Electrical Workers' Union No. 104, and other prominent labor leaders.

The Ward 14 Wage Earners' club will be addressed by prominent labor men to-morrow night at the headquarters of the club, No. 147 Emerson street, South Boston. All wage-earners are invited to attend.

Frank Bean, J. F. Donovan and J. F. Ahern have been chosen by the Ward 22 club as delegates to the central club. Meetings are held every Monday night at No. 321 Centre street, Jamaica Plain.

PROD LIGHT COMMITTEE.

Electrical Workers' Union No. 103 instructed its permanent committee on municipal ownership of public lighting at last night's meeting to appear before the Central Labor Union at next Sunday's meeting and urge that a committee be appointed to urge that the City Council committee on municipal lighting make its report immediately.

The Central Labor Union will also be asked to send letters to every member of the Board of Aldermen and Common Council asking them to state their position on municipal lighting. Local No. 103 also decided to have members address the various labor unions of the city on the advantages of the city doing its own lighting.

Local No. 103 elected John J. McLaughlin delegate to the convention of the State Branch, A. F. of L., which opens next Monday in Brockton. Martin T. Joyce was chosen alternate.

INSTALLED OFFICERS.

Officers from Lynn, Worcester and other locals throughout the State assisted at the installation of the newly elected officers of Boston Pattern Makers' Association last night. Past President L. C. Powers, assisted by Past President E. C. Pooley, officiated. The new officers are: President, W. A. Clough; vice-president, A. C. Reed; recording secretary, L. C. Powers; financial secretary and business agent, S. M. Lent; treasurer, C. H. Clark; trustees, O. H. Bean, Webster Barrows and L. J. Van Ham.

Following the installation exercises an entertainment was given and a collation served.

LABOR NOTES.

Michael J. Birmingham will represent Electrical Workers' Union No. 104 at the State branch, A. F. of L. convention, which opens at Lawrence next Monday.

Boston Musicians' Protective Association, Local No. 9, A. F. of L., meets this afternoon at its hall, No. 44 Federal street, to elect delegates to the convention of the State branch, A. F. of L., and also to nominate officers for the annual election next month.

Local No. 321, Industrial Insurance Agents' Union, will hold its first grand smoke talk and vaudeville performance next Thursday night at Phenix Hall, No. 724 Washington street. Two good speakers will also be present. All industrial insurance employes are invited. Admission free.

The Boston delegates to the recent annual convention of the United Brotherhood at Niagara Falls will make their report at to-night's meeting of the Carpenters' District Council.

A mass meeting of Piano and Organ Workers' Unions of Boston and Cambridge will be held to-night in Wells Memorial Hall. International Organizer Thomas V. Podzimek of Chicago and prominent

PLATT ELUDES HIS IRATE WIFE IN NEW YORK

Learning That She Seeks Him, He Quietly Steals Away From His Hotel.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Mrs. Thomas C. Platt, guarded by Erie Railroad officials so that she was able to slip from the train at the Jersey City depot almost unobserved to the ferry, arrived in New York to-day and went directly to the Hotel Gotham at Fifty-fifth street and Fifth avenue, determined to see her husband, the Senator.

Meanwhile the aged Senator Platt, who it is believed had learned that his belligerent wife had left their Summer home at Highland Mills, N. Y., left the Gotham, accompanied by his son, and eluded his irate wife by going directly to his office at No. 49 Broadway.

Mrs. Platt arrived in Jersey City on the 9:11 A. M. train from Highland Mills. She was dressed altogether in black and wore a heavy black veil which shielded her face from public gaze. No one was permitted to get near her either on the train or at the Erie depot in Jersey City. Senator Platt left his hotel an hour before his wife arrived in Jersey City.

WOMEN FIND NEW MARVELS IN MILLINERY

Splendid Display Made at Shepard-Norwell Annual Opening.

NEW SHAPES APPROVED

Millinery in all its subtle and exquisite glory, wonderful creations from Paris and models of home construction are displayed in charming radiance in the annual Autumn opening at the Shepard-Norwell Company. The department on the second floor extending from the centre of the store to the Temple place side, is a bower of beauty and a haven for the women in quest of a hat.

The quarters are richly decorated. Green predominates and a clever color scheme is carried out in blending harmony. About the inlaid floor, covered with a beautiful rug, are easy chairs of a construction in tune with the general decorative idea and special effort has been made to make the task of selecting a hat an easy one.

"Mushroom" Shape a Favorite.

Among the hundreds of models constructed in Paris and in the Shepard, Norwell's own workroom are many of the Gainsborough pattern and the small, irregular shapes. The mushroom is very popular this season. In the better hats are found the plain colored, velvet, satin, moire silks and maline are much used in the coverings. Brown in all shades, the tortoise shell and empire green to reseda green, red, dull rose and dahlia shades are considered quite the proper thing, while the contrasting colors of black and light blue and black and pink are displayed in great variety.

The plain French hats, cut beavers, fur hats, irregular shapes and hats trimmed with fruits are to be much in demand, and the stock shows much care in selection.

The children's and misses' department is a feature of the exhibition. Here are to be found in abundance dress hats and school hats. Little poke bonnets, bonnets of fur and ermine with touches of light blue, pink and white of pretty designs are shown.

Fine Display in Show Window.

In the spacious show windows of Winter street are shown some of the most beautiful of the models. The designs are so carried out that the shopper may be given an idea of the appearance of the hats when worn with the newer styles of gowns and in this they have been signally successful. The windows are pleasantly decorated with Autumn tints and serve as a reminder that the Autumn season is now on in all its glory and give the idea that the Shepard Norwell Company has left nothing undone to supply the demand for smart and tasty costumes.

The management has made a special effort to make their opening complete, and no expense has been spared toward gaining that end. Visitors, and thousands are flocking to the opening each day, find that the millinery department is complete and satisfying to the most fastidious.

WIRELESS LOVE MAKING FAILS

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Romance by wireless telegraphy has proved a failure, if the first case is a good sample.

Dr. Lee de Forest is suing his bride of seven months, whom he wooed and won by means of wireless telegraphy, for absolute divorce, naming DeWitt C. Flanagan, the millionaire president of a brewing concern.

The wedding of the De Forests last February in the St. Regis was a notable affair, because of the dramatic nature of the courtship. For two months or more there has been an interruption in the communication between the noted young inventor and his wireless bride, she leaving his home after a quarrel and going back to live with her mother.

DOGS WIMS THE CHANNEL

LONDON, Oct. 4.—A dog which fell overboard from a tug off Dungeness has been picked up at the mouth of the harbor of Bologue having practically swam from England to France. The course taken by the dog is regarded as showing a strong drift from Dungeness to Boulogne, as otherwise the animal could not have accomplished its feat. It is thought that men attempting to swim the channel will take the hint.

6000 BLIND MEN MEET IN MAINE

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 4.—Six thousand blind delegates will assemble here at the annual convention of the International Association for the Blind, associations all over the country being represented. The convention will be held in the Auditorium, and seven bands will be in attendance, consolidated into one monster band.

HURT IN DOUBLE CRASH AT ROXBURY

Two men were injured and two teams were overturned to-day in Roxbury as the result of collisions with electric cars.

The first accident occurred at 7 a. m. on Guild street, near Washington. Car No. 382 collided with a city cart driven by Thomas Kelley, of No. 200 Norfolk avenue, Roxbury. Kelley's right hip was injured. He was taken home.

At 8 o'clock a pedler's cart, driven by Thomas Gaffney, was struck by a car at the corner of Clarence and Dudley streets. Gaffney was thrown to the pavement and his right arm was injured.

LIFTED HORSE; DIES OF HEART FAILURE

BURLINGTON, Vt., Oct. 4.—Charles C. Miller, treasurer of the Burlington Drug Company, and one of the most prominent of Burlington's citizens, died suddenly yesterday. The afternoon before Mr. Miller helped to raise a fallen horse in the street and death resulted from heart failure from over-exertion.

LIBERTY, PROSPERITY, ISSUES—W. R. HEARST

ACCEPTS NOMINATION FOR GOVERNOR OF NEW YORK BY INDEPENDENCE LEAGUE.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—William Randolph Hearst, the candidate of the Independence League and Democratic party, gave out his letter of acceptance last night, addressed to the Independence League.

He declares that there are two things of importance as issues in the coming campaign, and these he names as liberty nad prosperity.

The letter declares that the greater of these issues is liberty, "for," he declares, "a man not truly free is not really a man at all."

Mr Hearst declares that the great problem of the hour is to do away with corporation control of the government, and he says that corporation control is now practically absolute.

"It rests mainly upon our system," the letter says, "directed by boss rule and subject to trust ownership."

"As long as a trust can buy the bosses on both sides, dictate the nominations on both sides, control railroad commissions, give away franchises, bribe with the people's money the people's representatives, what part do the people themselves play in government?"

Direct Nominations the Remedy.

Mr. Hearst indorses the platform of the Independence League, "word for word," and says that the practical solution of the boss question is in the direct nomination of men for every public office, "from assemblymen to judges and senators of the United States."

The letter in part is as follows:

"Two things are of special importance as issues in this campaign—liberty and prosperity. By far the greater of these is liberty, for a man not truly free is not really a man at all. The object of the Independence League is to resist the attacks upon human liberty, upon government of the people menaced by corporation rule, and to resist the attacks upon general prosperity by those same corporations and by dishonest financial agencies.

"I accept with gratitude and with a deep feeling of responsibility the nomination of the Independence League.

"In addressing you I am mindful of the fact that you represent the determination of the people, irrespective of party, to restore the American system of government in this country.

Trust Control Absolute.

"The great problem of the hour, the problem that the people must solve with their ballots and in legislation, is to do away with corporation control of the government. That control is now practically absolute. It rests mainly upon our system of partisan politics, directed by boss rule and subject to trust ownership.

"In the platform of the Independence League, which I indorse word for word, and which I shall strive faithfully to represent, I see the practical solution of the boss question.

"I refer to the specific demand for direct nomination of men to fill every public office, from Assemblymen to Judges and Senators of the United States.

"Wisconsin and South Carolina demonstrate to the rest of the nation the great usefulness of the direct nomination system. I congratulate the Independence League upon having inserted this principle in its platform, and I accept your nomination with the full knowledge that the Independence League and its candidate for Governor are pledged in honor to the extermination of bossism by putting into operation throughout our State the system of direct nominations and open primaries.

Democracy Now Unfettered.

"The Democracy, denouncing bribery and its accompanying campaign of falsehood and villification, has wrested control of the party machine from the grip of the corporations, and by an overwhelming vote it has indorsed the candidates of the Independence League for the three highest offices in the service of the State.

"Because of that indorsement by a party in possession of the election machinery, the Independence League and its principles are assured of fair protection at the polls, of which they would otherwise have been deprived. Because of the hand held out by the Democratic party, independent citizenship in this State will have, at the coming election, a chance to count every vote cast against corporation control.

Corporation Lawyer Put Forward.

"You see a corporation lawyer put forward as the standard bearer of the Republican party in this campaign. You see corporation lawyers, and violent partisans of monopolies held up to you as the only men fit to select your Judges.

"The Independence League and the honest masses of the Democratic party are to have an opportunity in November next of expressing their opinion of government by corporations, corporation-owned bosses and corporation attorneys.

"The people know that their enemies are the originators and managers of oppressive trusts. They know that these trusts are in control, in the machine of the Republican party in this State. They see Mr. Sheldon chosen as treasurer to raise and spend the money for Mr. Hughes, the corporation attorney.

"And when they realize that Mr. Sheldon, director in twenty-one corporations, notoriously connected with the collapsed Shipbuilding Trust, is the financial reliance of the ticket which Mr. Hughes heads, they cannot look upon that ticket as promising much for the prosperity of the mass of the people.

"The essence of prosperity of the right kind is honesty and security, and there is neither security nor honesty in the effort to turn control of popular government over to corporations. The prosperity of business men, the comfort of all the citizens, are largely at the mercy of the railroad system in our country.

Governor Chosen by Railroads.

The State Railroad Commission to-day, paid by the railroads, appointed by the railroads through a Governor whom they chose, serves the railroads and remains passive in the face of deliberate violation of law, passive in the face of such excesses as those which mark the mistreatment of passengers by the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company.

"Under present conditions, as the railroads own the Commission, the public's rights and wishes are ignored.

"I propose, if elected, to run the present Railroad Commission out of office and to appoint a commission that will represent the travelling public instead of the public service corporations.

"In regard to the violations of financial trust and the uneasiness repeatedly caused by revelations of dishonesty in banks, trust companies, building and loan associations, such as the Merchants' Trust Company, the German Bank of Buffalo, the New York Building and Loan Association, there is no question that the public welfare demands drastic action.

Will Remove Kilburn.

"I propose, if elected, to remove Kilburn, reorganize the department and have it administered so as to carry out both the letter and the spirit of the law.

"The corporations have juggled with the funds of insurance companies in open disregard for common honesty with contempt for the penal code and for the insurance law. There is incompetence in the State department created for the special purpose of detecting and preventing these crimes and breaches of trust. I purpose, if elected, to remove the present incumbent and reorganize this important department upon a business basis from top to bottom, and in this manner to end corporation control of life insurance, so vital to peace of mind in the homes of the people.

"I propose, if elected, to exercise fearless, with due regard for the principle of home rule, the power of removal given by the people to the Governor. I propose to end control by the corporations not only in these State departments, but in the county offices, charged with the responsibility of enforcing the criminal laws of the State.

Put Officials Under People's Control.

"I advocate strongly every measure that will bring public officials in closer touch with the people and put them more directly under the people's control.

"An honest election law, an efficient corrupt practices act, and especially a measure that will make it possible to have a judicial review of an election upon proof of fraud or mistake, must be enacted as part of that campaign against corporation domination upon which the people have entered so enthusiastically. The right of American citizens to a free ballot and a fair count is absolutely fundamental.

"To insure this I would advocate a law that will allow the taker of a bribe to go free in return for the testimony that should put in prison the more dangerous criminal who gives the bribe.

"Believing in the public ownership of public utilities that are in the nature of monopolies, opposed to private confiscation of public property and to public confiscation of private property, believing in upholding and enforcing every property right, I stand for irreconcilable hostility to the appropriation by corporations of property belonging to the community.

For Municipal Ownership.

"I shall continue to work for the enactment of a statute empowering cities to acquire and operate all public utilities, such as gas and electric lighting plants, the transportation lines and telephones, whenever such cities, by a majority vote, favor such a course.

"I have always been opposed to the abuse of the writ of injunction in labor disputes, and I advocate the passage of a law securing the right of trial by jury in alleged contempt cases.

"To lighten the burden of the farmers who, as the Independence League platform aptly says, 'develop the fundamental wealth, feed the entire population of the State, and have created the vast railway fortunes, railroad rates must be reduced and New York must be placed in line with other progressive States that are enforcing a maximum rate of two cents a mile to every railroad not specially chartered to exact a greater charge.

"I thank the Independence League again for the honor it has conferred upon me. I accept the nomination and pledge myself to strive in the future, as I have in the past, to retain for the people the rights they still have, and to restore to them the power of government which they have lost.

"WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST."

ANCIENTS DRY, WIRE FOR HELP

Special to the Boston American.

ATLANTIC CITY, Oct. 4.—The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston, which is here for two days, wired for help to New York and Philadelphia, twelve hours after its arrival. The twelve hours cleaned out the commissary.

"Nothing but salt water left," the commissary wired to New York. He wired in simple directness to Philadelphia the one word, "Help," and signed the touching appeal, "Ancient and Honorable Artillery of Boston.

Help arrived by express and all was well for the banquet given last night by the Ancient and Honorables to the city officials and every military man in town. They leave for Boston to-day.

FIND A BABE'S DISMEMBERED BODY IN TRUNK

Ghastly Discovery in Store-room of a Young Women's Christian Association Home.

MYSTERY IN PHILADELPHIA

By Boston American Leased Wire.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 4.—The dismembered body of a male child, it was learned to-day, has been found in a trunk in the store room of the Young Women's Christian Association building, at Eighteenth and Arch streets. The police succeded in keeping the discovery of the crime secret for four days. The remains give evidence of unusual brutality, as the little victim was cut up alive, death having been caused by the process of dismemberment.

The discovery was made by Miss Elizabeth Smart and Mrs. Josephine Gannon, the latter acting house mother of the association. The remains were in Miss Smart's trunk, which was, with 300 others, in the room kept for that purpose.

No suspicion attaches to Miss Smart, as the body might have been put in the trunk by any one of the four hundred women in the building. Miss Smart kept nearly all her clothing in her bedroom and for more than six months did not open the trunk.

On Saturday she wanted a wrap, and on opening the lid of the trunk made the ghastly discovery. She called Mrs. Gannon, who summoned Miss Sarah Stroup, assistant house mother. The body was in a paper box such as is used to put men's shoes in.

That Miss Smart's trunk was selected was indicated by the fact that three discarded unlocked trunks were lying along side of it, but were not chosen, and it was suggested that some enemy of Miss Smart had put the body there for revenge.

The boarders were not informed of the discovery, according to a pre-arranged plan of Detective Smythe and Deputy Coroner Barton. A conference was held with Mrs. Henry W. Green, president of the association, and other officers, who formed an investigating committee to help solve the mystery.

The police believe the child was not killed in the building, but that the body had been left there to throw detectives off the track. They say the crime was probably committed by a man who is accustomed to the use of instruments.

The investigation reveals that the management of the association had considerable trouble with the young men of a dental school in the neighborhood.

CZAR ON VERGE OF COLLAPSE; COURT ALARMED

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 4.—The health of Czar Nicholas of Russia is causing the greatest concern to the authorities in Russia who know of his real condition. This is the statement made by the Post, which says that persons in close touch with British court circles have heard ominous reports in regard to the Russian monarch's physical and mental condition.

Recent events have made the Czar suspicious of every one, as he no longer knows upon whom he can depend to protect him from the revolutionists who are seeking his life. Under the mental strain to which he has been subjected his health has suffered.

Often Nicholas refuses the food prepared for him, fearing poison may have been administered in it. He cannot sleep at night and has resorted to opiates and drugs of even more drastic character to induce sleep, but they have proved ineffective.

Owing to the discouraging reports as to the Czar's condition more credence is being given in British court circles to reports that he may soon abdicate his throne, and no action on his part would cause much surprise.

MONTH'S TREATMENT FREE

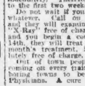
Including All Medicine, Given to All Patients Applying at the Offices of the Osmo-Chemic Physicians, 18 Boylston street, On or Before Oct. 13. There will be no Charge for Consultation, or the Most Careful Examination with the X-Ray.

The Osmo-Chemic Physicians, the great scientists, in order to demonstrate their skill in the cure of Chronic Diseases by their New Discovery, will give to all patients who apply for treatment before Oct. 14th one month's treatment, including all medicines, ABSOLUTELY FREE. This liberal offer will bring the cost of a course of treatment sufficient to cure the most obstinate, curable chronic disease within the reach of all. Anyone, no matter what their disease, can avail themselves of this liberal offer. It is limited only as to time. It is clear that such an offer cannot be continued indefinitely. Therefore the offer has been limited to the first two weeks of October.

Do not wait if you are suffering from any disease whatever. Call on the Osmo-Chemic Physicians and they will examine you carefully with their big "X-Ray" free of charge, and if your case is curable and you begin a course of treatment before Oct. 14th, they will treat you and furnish you with one month's treatment, including all medicines, absolutely free of charge.

Out of town people are not waiting, they are coming on every train from the country and neighboring towns to be cured by the Osmo-Chemic Physicians. A cure is guaranteed in every case.

LEUCODESCENT RAYS



What the Leucodescent Rays do:

(1) The "Leucodescent" Rays not only increase the nutrition of living animal cells, thus promoting tissue metabolism, but they are a powerful destroyer of germ life — bacteria, etc.

(2) It is the only therapeutic light that can be used with certainty of results and absolute safety in its application.

(3) That it is a pain reliever by its intense, vibratory, rhythm-restoring force upon the nerve cell.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Many Prominent Citizens Testify to the Merit of the New Leucodescent Light Treatment of the Osmo-Chemic Physicians.

Mrs. Emma R. Gough, York Beach, Me., writes, under date of Aug. 31st, 1906: "Osmo-Chemic Physicians—Please send me a dozen or more copies of your book, 'The Treatment That Cures,' and some of your cards. I could have profitably placed more than a dozen books during the last two months. You gave in my case the start that nature needed and my health is in better condition than it has been for 30 years. Sincerely yours, EMMA R. GOUGH." Mrs. Gough's trouble was disease of the stomach.

Loran James Sanford, 68 Hyde Park ave., Forest Hills, Mass., motorman on the Boston Elevated for past five years, says: "The Osmo-Chemic Physicians have just discharged me cured of a disease of the stomach of three years' standing and also treated me successfully for Rupture."

Mrs. Nelson Lowe, R. F. D., Walpole, Mass., a well-known and highly respected lady who suffered from bladder and kidney disease, writes the following: "I am very grateful to the Osmo-Chemic physicians for what they have done for me. I feel that I have been cured."

Mrs. Anna Chapman, wife of Eben S. Chapman, the well-known farmer who resides at 207 Main street, Reading, Mass., says: "I had kidney disease that had reached the dignity of incipient Bright's Disease. I was treated with the new light treatment of the Osmo-Chemic Physicians; now I am so well that I do not require medical treatment."

Melville A. Stone, superintendent of public schools, Reading, Mass., says: "I feel wholly restored to health. My ailment was poor digestion."

F. R. Forbush, prominent jeweller of Lisbon, N. H., says: "I found the Leucodescent Rays a wonderful treatment, marvellous in its results."

Mr. Wm. McConnell, well-known real estate agent, 179 Summer st., Boston, Mass., says: "I am thankful that the Osmo-Chemic physicians' new light treatment cured me of Rheumatism and Catarrh."

Mrs. Elsie Tobey, 173 Charles st., Boston, Mass., wife of the well-known artist, Louis Tobey, says: "It cured me of blood poisoning."

Mrs. Jessie Henton, 32 Pond st., Natick, Mass., wife of the well-known barber whose shop is located at 23 Washington st., Natick, says: "The new light treatment cured me two years ago."

Miss Emily Davis, 1 Davis st., Marlboro, Mass., says: "The new light treatment of the Osmo-Chemic physicians cured my mother of deafness, my sister of female disease and myself of stomach disease."

Mrs. Amelia Johnson, 822 Main st., Brockton, Mass., wife of the well-known painter and paperhanger, says: "The new light treatment cured me of chronic peritonitis."

THE OSMO-CHEMIC SYSTEM OF MEDICINE Permanent offices, Suite 8, 9, 10, entrance No. 18 Boylston st., Boston, Mass. Send 2c. stamp for book on chronic disease. Office Hours—9 A. M. to 12 M., 2 to 4 and 6 to 8 P. M. daily. Closed Sundays.

$30,000 GEMS STOLEN; $5000 RANSOM GIVEN

Secret Negotiations Result in Restoration of Breese Jewels by Thieves To-day.

MYSTERY ABOUT THEFT

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—A $30,000 jewel robbery at The Orchards, the beautiful Southampton, L. I., country home of James L. Breese, the millionaire society man and artist, in which every element of mystery has been present from the time of the disappearance of the gems until the eve of closing of the remarkable negotiations for their return, which is promised to-day, has been disclosed.

The exact date of the disappearance of the jewelry, which belonged chiefly to Mrs. Breese, and which was supposed to be safe in the repository in which it was usually deposited for safe-keeping at The Orchards, is not clear, and it is doubtful if Mr. Breese or any member of his household can set the time exactly. It was missed less than two weeks ago.

As soon as the detectives were put to work a communication was received by Mr. Breese which contained an offer to return all the property provided the utmost secrecy was observed and assurance was given that there would be no publicity or attempts at prosecution afterward. The price demanded for the return of all the property intact is said to have been $5,000.

The compact of secrecy has been carefully observed by Mr. Breese, his family and the Pinkerton agency. The detectives took up the negotiations for the return of the jewels and have about brought them to a successful conclusion.

DIED FROM FALL ON WIRE FENCE

Special to the Boston American.

NORTH ATTLEBORO, Oct. 4.—Because he chased a newsboy who scampered away with one cent, David Dooley fell over a wire fence and received injuries which caused his death early to-day.

Dooley was 82 years old and was wealthy. Last Saturday he called a newsboy and bought papers which sold for four cents. He gave the boy a nickel. The youngster started to run without giving Dooley the cent in change. Dooley ran after him, fell over a wire fence and ruptured his stomach.

TRANSPORT THOMAS ABLAZE AT MANILA

MANILA, Oct. 4.—Fire to-day broke out in the hold of the transport Thomas, lying alongside a wharf in the harbor. The flames made their appearance in a quantity of hay stored in the hold. They spread to the bunkers, getting a good start in the coal. It is feared it will be necessary to sink the transport to put out the fire.

50c Music for 15c

We offer you for a limited time a medley overture of "Standard American Airs" for piano. This is the greatest piece of its kind on the market to-day, being a superb collection of America's Standard National Airs, consisting of fourteen (14) numbers, including "Marching Through Georgia," "Good Night, Ladies," "Dixieland," "Star Spangled Banner" and "My Old Kentucky Home." It is the greatest value for the money ever offered you, as it is a piece that will not grow old, but will live for a decade—not for a day, like a song—and the oftener you play it the better you and your friends will like it. This is a composition that is easily worth five times what we ask for it—15 cents per copy, postpaid.

In order to share in this remarkable offer be sure to cut out and mail the coupon below at once.

SOUTH END GROUNDS, Boston, Oct. 4.—It being the last opportunity of the season to see them play, a large crowd was present this afternoon at the double-header between the Brooklyns and the Bostons. Promptly at 1:30 the first game was sent under way, and the fans sat back in their seats, expecting to witness two good diamond battles.

There was a lot of handshaking and "fare-ye-wells" after the sport was over, as it marked the last home games under the present management, which has held sway for thirty years. Although the fans were not sorry to say good-by to the triumvirs, as they have had few up-to-date baseball ideas during the past ten years, still the fans cherished the knowledge that there was a time when Messrs. Conant, Billings and Soden spent all kinds of money on their club, and brought such stars as Clarkson and Kelly here, which cost a barrel of money.

The Bostons were anxious to leave a good impression on the minds of fans before leaving for New York, where they close the season Saturday, and went hot after both games.

The Brooklyns made the Bostons look cheap yesterday, and consequently the local bunch was desirous of putting the Trolley Dodgers under the ash heap in both engagements.

"Young Cy" Young and Lindman were selected for the box-work to-day for Boston, while McIntyre and Pastorius were booked to work for the visiting aggregation.

GAMES SCHEDULED TO-DAY.

New York at Philadelphia. Cleveland at Chicago.

Two more games in this city and the baseball season will be at an end. The midnight train will bring in its cargo, fifteen members of Clark Griffith's "Highlanders," who will tackle the Pilgrims to-morrow and Saturday at the Huntington avenue grounds. New York is fighting hard for second place in the league standing now that Chicago has romped off with the pennant. Cleveland, the nearest rival, is only one game behind. It will be a neck and neck struggle until the last man is out on Saturday.

A few years ago Boston met New York for the championship of the American League and the pennant was won by the Pilgrims with the last man at the bat in the ninth inning. Chick Stahl has no desire to give these last two games to New York for love. The Boston team is playing great ball these days and there is no doubt that at least one of the series will come to the team of the plucky manager who drew his team out of the mire a few weeks ago when it had gone to the bad.

Kroh and Oberlin and also Wormstead will be given a try-out in front of the fans during the next two days. Stahl wants to give the Huntington avenue patrons a chance to see how his new material works, and undoubtedly the appearance of the new men will draw a big crowd.

NEW PLAN AT HARVARD.

Another new plan has been devised in Harvard track athletics—the choosing of captains for each of the numerous squads. It is thought that by putting each set of men in charge of an official head more personal attention can be given.

GOULD AND DAVIS WON.

DANBURY, Conn., Oct. 4.—George J. Gould of New York and Mrs. Richard Harding Davis were the chief winners in the Russian wolf hound class at the dog show at the Danbury fair yesterday. The former took one first and second prize, and the latter one first.

TENNEY POSTS $5,000.

The final papers have not been passed in the sale of the Boston Nationals.

Director Conant yesterday admitted that a forfeit of $5,000 had been put up by Tenney to bind the deal.

It will probably be a month or more, however, before the final papers are passed.

ALBERT CLEMENT AND ALLESI IN THE CLEMENT-BAYARD RACING CAR

Albert Clement and Allesi in the Clement Bayard will rank warm favorites for the Vanderbilt Cup race this year owing to the excellent showing made by the pair in the first Vanderbilt race, when they ran second to George Heath by a very narrow margin. Mr. Clement is a son of the great French manufacturer, and is a driver this year only because of his ability to secure a furlough from the French army, in which he is now serving his time. His car is long and sinuous and denotes speed in its every line. It is nothing like the car of the first year, but has a wonderful record for this season.

LAWWELL GOES 29 MILES IN 27½ MIN

Betting in books at Garden City Hotel on Vanderbilt Cup race Saturday follows:

Lancia, Mazzaro and Duray, 2 to 1 each; Wagner and Clement, 3 to 1; Heath and Wellschott, 4 to 1; Janetzy, Cagno and Fabry, 8 to 1; Luttgen, LeBlon and Tracy, 10 to 1; Shepard, 15 to 1; Haynes, 25 to 1; Lawwell, 5 to 1; Christie, 100 to 1.

Special to the Boston American.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Lawwell, driving the Frayer-Miller car, broke all former records for the Vanderbilt course to-day when he made the circuit of 29 miles in 27½ minutes.

Although this remarkable record was disputed by some, Julius E. Mayer of the Frayer-Miller Company, who was timing the car at Krug's Corner, declared there was no doubt but that Lawwell had covered the course in the figures given.

William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., appeared on the course to-day in his Mercedes and made one lap in fast time. Mr. Vanderbilt was looking out for Harry Payne Whitney, who is scheduled to race to-morrow. Mr. Whitney did not slow up.

When Mr. Vanderbilt was asked if he was searching for Mr. Whitney he merely smiled and remarked that the track was in excellent condition. Soon after he had departed Mrs. Vanderbilt appeared in a White steamer. She also asked if Mr. Whitney had been around.

An exciting feature of the trials to-day was a match race between Heath, Werner and Tracy. Heath won it.

Janetzy made a lap in thirty minutes and announced that he had been handicapped by the wire fencing at the turns nearest the grand stand. He will complain to the racing committee.

Following are some of the figures registered today for the course of twenty-nine miles: Mazzaro, 31; Wellschot, 40; Duray, 28; Leblon, 30; Luytgen, 32.

Taking the turn at Krug's Corner on the Vanderbilt course to-day, Christie, in his 200-horsepower machine, had a narrow escape from death, and the life of Dr. Wellschott, an Italian competitor in the race next Saturday, was also endangered.

Christie's machine is the most powerful of any of those entered for the race, and has a speed record of about 105 miles an hour.

He was going toward King's Corner at a ninety-mile speed on one of the practice laps. Behind him was Dr. Wellschott in his 120-horsepower Fiat.

Owing to the terrific speed at which he was going Christie had to steer wide at the turn and his car shot off the roadway. Christie immediately applied the brakes and the Fiat car came thundering upon him. Dr. Wellschott, who saw Christie's dilemma, managed to swerve his machine barely in time to prevent a frightful crash.

AMERICAN TEAM BEST THAT'S REPRESENTED THIS COUNTRY

BY J. C. KERRISON.

With the Vanderbilt race only two days away the knowing ones are still at a loss to pick the probable winner. Lancia is of course the popular favorite, owing unquestionably to the showing he made a year ago, and not through any great trial work he has done on the course this season. There seems to be a general feeling that the Italian team will prove victorious. As a rule it is considered as the strongest one of the four. The chances of the German team are considered as being very slight, while France, with her five experts, is acknowledged as a strong factor.

The American team under its present composition is unquestionably the best that has ever represented this country in an international. Still it could be made stronger if two of the machines now named would withdraw. The fact that the Frayer-Miller and the Haynes cars have not been on the course during the training, coupled with the statement that the Roberts, Thomas and the Lytle, Pope-Toledo are both returning to the course is considered a significant fact, indicating perhaps the withdrawal of one of the first named and the reinstatement of the Pope-Toledo. Should the Haynes withdraw and either the Thomas or the Pope-Toledo be named instead the team would be materially strengthened, and the Haynes would not be injured in the slightest degree. The Haynes people have contended all along that their machine is a touring not a racing car and her voluntary withdrawal would be in the light of patriotism.

As at present made up the American team consists of Tracy, Haynes, Lawwell, Christie and Le Blon. Tracy has since the date of the elimination done some excellent work in practice and he is admittedly the strongest man on the American team. He has two machines at his disposal, the one with which he won the elimination and the reserve car. Which of the two he will use has not yet been determined. He has used both machines in his practice work, and while admitting that they are equal in point of speed is inclined to favor using the machine which stood him in such excellent stead two weeks ago.

On the French team are found two former successful candidates in the Vanderbilt, namely George Heath and Albert Clements. The former won the first Vanderbilt and the latter finished second in that big event. Heath has scored twice in the Vanderbilts as besides winning the first he finished second last year. Albert Clements is one of the best men who has ever sat behind a steering wheel, a thorough general, capable of coping with almost every condition that may confront him, and one who will drive his machine through thick and thin to win.

There seems to be considerable dissatisfaction manifested over the conditions of the course, which owing to the inclement weather prevailing during the past week is in a more deplorable condition. [illegible] are now working to get the course in shape for the contest paying particular attention to the hair pin and Krug's corner turns.

The Boston Automobile Dealers' Association has issued its prospectus of the coming automobile and power boat show. It shows that departments A, B and E located in Mechanics Hall will be devoted entirely to pleasure vehicles only; departments C and D to exhibits of motor boats, boat accessories and marine hardware, and F and G to automobile accessories. Department H, located in Horticultural Hall, will be given up entirely to commercial vehicles and their accessories. This is considered as an excellent arrangement of exhibits as it places in a hall by itself one of the strongest lines of motor vehicles known to the industry.

BIG BOUT ON COAST IS OFF

By W. W. NAUGHTON.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 4.—The Jack O'Brien-Sam Berger match is off.

O'Brien wanted clean breaks and no hitting in the clinches, while Berger held out for the privilege of working a free arm at any and all times. They could not agree and the Thanksgiving Day meeting in the green fields of Colma is numbered with things that might have been.

When a day or two ago O'Brien sent word from Los Angeles that he would sanction an even split of the prize money, it looked as though the big boxers were drawing together. There was still the clean break clause for hitting to be adjusted, and a conference was called for last night at Coffroth's Fifth street resort.

Berger was on hand, and Jack Cribbins was there to speak for O'Brien.

"How do we stand?" asked Berger.

"O'Brien still insists that the articles signed in Chicago be lived up to," replied Cribbins.

"Then we may as well call the match off," said Berger.

"All right," said Cribbins.

Coffroth, who was present, remarked that if the men had agreed to fight in the style demanded by O'Brien he would not have handled the match anyhow.

There was too much hugging and not enough fighting in an affair of that sort according to the Colma promoter. He recalled the Berger-Rodenbach match, which, he said, was a farce, owing to Rodenbach grabbing his opponent after every lead and holding on.

Cribbins then spoke up as follows:

"I want to say for O'Brien that he simply wants to adhere to the articles of agreement signed by Berger and himself in Chicago. An agreement is an agreement, and those articles call for clean breaks.

"If Berger has changed his mind you must not blame O'Brien. Jack has acted very nicely throughout. He agreed to divide the money in order to bring the match to a head, but he will not give in in this other matter. He weighs thirty-five pounds less than Berger and will not fight under any but the clean-break system."

It developed that, in addition to breaking away without punching, O'Brien wanted it understood that there was to be no hitting at any time while the men were tangled up in anything resembling a clinch.

Berger said that an arrangement of that kind would permit of O'Brien hanging on indefinitely when tired or hurt. Sam said he would not subscribe to anything of that kind. Neither side would budge an inch, and as there will be no fight.

FOOTBALL DATE CHANGED

DEDHAM, Oct. 4.—The football game between Dedham High and Newton High, scheduled for October 6, at Newton, has been postponed to the Friday following.

WANT GANZEL TO MANAGE SENATORS

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Is the American League preparing to hand the Cincinnati Club another lemon by steering President Herrmann off First Baseman John Ganzel of the Grand Rapids team? Is the crime of saddling the Reds with Tom Daly and Cozy Dolan some years ago and Charlie Carr last Fall to be repeated by talking the management into keeping its hands off the big initial sacker?

News, travelling via Cleveland, Cincinnati to New York, is to the effect that the American League has suddenly discovered that it can use Ganzel, who was in obscurity until President Harriman began making inquiries about him, and that the American desires him to play first base for and manage the Washington team. How much truth there is in the story cannot be ascertained at this end. However, it is known that Manager Hanlon advised President Herrmann last week to get Ganzel; that he considers him the one man who can round out the Reds' infield in the matter of fielding, hiting and general team work, and that, with the big fellow to guard sack No. 1, he will have the best infield in the National League, barring none. Ganzel is as far the superior of Bob Unglaub that there is no comparison between the two. The Reds are entitled to him by reason of discovery, and it remains to be seen if President Herrmann will surrender him to the Buccaneers, who always are looking for the best of it.

WHITE SOX NOW OWN PENNANT

The Chicago "White Sox" have won the championship of the American League. Comiskey's boys can now lose the three games scheduled at home with Cleveland and the game booked with Detroit and still hold a winning margin, even if New York should win its three remaining games scheduled with Philadelphia and Boston.

The Highlanders made a game fight and will receive a warm hand in Boston to-morrow and the next day.

One game separates Cleveland and New York for second honor. Cleveland has four games more to play, and if they can win all four, New York losing one, the Cleveland team will finish in second place.

AMERICANS OUTSHOOT ENGLISH TEAM

CREEDMORE, L. I., Oct. 4.—The silver challenge shield donated by Colonel Sir Howard Vincent will remain on this side. The rifle shooting team of the Seventh Regiment, N. G. N. Y., won the trophy in very decisive fashion here yesterday from the Queen's Westminster Volunteers of London, whom they defeated by a margin of sixty points.

The total scores of each team of 500, 600, 800 and 1,000 yards ranges were: Seventh Regiment, 1,648; Queen's Westminster Volunteers, 1,588.

CAMP ISSUES A PAPER RELATING TO NEW RULES

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Walter Camp's paper on the football rules, making suggestions for their proper interpretation according to the intent of those who formed them, was issued last night. Following are extracts:

"That the referee is absolute in all points not covered by the umpire, but the umpires are absolute regarding fouls, and the referee must allow precedence to their decision in case of a foul.

"The referee has the power to shorten the time of halves arbitrarily in case the game is not started early enough so that, in his opinion, two full halves may be played before darkness. In any other case the time of the game can only be shortened by mutual consent between the two captains.

"Any man who desires to make a fair catch must raise his hands clearly above his head to signify that intention.

"Officials should note that the tripping is specifically forbidden and defined as obstructing a player below the knees with a similar portion of the tripper's anatomy. It is permissible for an end to drive in in breaking up the interference, but he must not trip the opposing player nor may he tackle below the knees. The only men who may tackle below the knees are the line men from tackle to tackle in the scrimmage. These same men, namely those from tackle to tackle, in the scrimmage on the offense cannot be dropped back unless the man dropped back goes at least five yards back and another takes his place in the line.

"The rules committee has been asked to make a further interpretation of the rule regarding a linesman dropping back. The linesman has a particular duty in seeing that the ends are on side when the ball is put in play, and that they are not tripped when going down the field under a kick. And, finally, he should watch especially to see that the man who has kicked the ball behind the line of scrimmage is not bumped into or roughed by the opponents after he has made his kick.

"Any local ground rules should be agreed upon before the game starts. After the game begins the points for the officials to watch are failure to be properly on the line of scrimmage, hurdling and tackling below the knees."

TOMMY MURPHY WILL RETIRE IF DEFEATED

Tommy Murphy's recent victory in Philadelphia over Spike Robson conclusively proves that he has regained that wonderful form which made him the little marvel of a year ago. So that it seems assured that finally the local sports will have a chance to see the Harlem youth in action, and the Lincoln Club insures a good, hard contest by selecting Kid Goodman as his opponent next Tuesday night.

The grand battle that Goodman made against Herrera, where many believed he was at least entitled to a draw, proved that the Kid is going faster than ever in his life, and that he will test the ability of Murphy to the utmost.

Murphy is essentially a rough-house scrapper, one of the sort who keeps in all the time, and one who never backs up.

His knockout of Benny Yanger showed that he was a high-class boxer, and all of his ring work has been characterized by rushing, hard hitting and an inevitable

The men have agreed to box under straight rules, to a decision, and the referee has not yet been selected.

Murphy will arrive in the city Monday morning and finish his work at Steve O'Donnell's gymnasium.

Goodman left yesterday for Diamond Hill, R. I., where he will be trained by Billy Gardner. He is confident that he will be in grand good condition to put an end to Murphy's championship aspirations.

PELL AND LEROY WIN.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 4.—Columbia and Harvard will fight it out to-day for the intercollegiate lawn tennis singles championship, Leroy of Columbia and Pell of Harvard being the contestants. By defeating Gordon of Princeton the Columbia crack entered the final round.

QUILL DRAWS WITH UNHOLZ

BROCKTON, Oct. 4.—Tommy Quill of Brockton and Rudolph Unholz of South Africa went to a draw in six furious rounds last night at the first boxing meeting in Brockton since the police stopped the sport in June. For five rounds Quill hammered Unholz hard with his left and was countered with heavy rights to the body, making it even up. The South African opened in the sixth with new tactics that puzzled Quill and gave a shade the better of the argument against the Brockton boxer. The decision was a draw, however, and seemed to please the crowd.

MORRISON GAVE CODY BEATING

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., Oct. 4.—Referee Saucher gave Johnny Morrison, the St. Joseph lightweight boxer, the decision over Tommy Cody, of Chicago, in a ten-round bout at the Bell Opera House last night. Honors were even all through the bout until the last round, when Morrison came back fresh and gave Cody a hard trouncing.

M'INNIS TO BE REFEREE.

It has been mutually agreed between Tommy Murphy and Kid Goodman that the referee for their contest at the Lincoln Club, Chelsea, next Tuesday night, will be Hector McInnis of South Boston.

FINE CARD FOR THE SPEEDWAY

A great afternoon's sport is promised for lovers of horse racing Saturday afternoon, when thirteen races, under the auspices of the Dorchester Gentlemen's Driving Club, are to take place on the Franklin Field speedway. The programme:

Class A—Rondo, br. g., S. W. Wales; Rob B., br. g., or General Fiske, b. g., M. A. Nevins.

How Old Is Jane? If You Are Wrong Have Another Try

Experts Disagree; Can You Settle the Question?

WHERE are all the GOOD mathematicians? Why don't some of them get busy and tell the judge how old Jane really is?

All sorts of answers are pouring in on the Puzzle Editor. Most of them appear to be right—they must be, for they are nearly all proved just the way we used to do it in school.

There's a wide range of opinion. Most every one seems to think Jane is somewhere about twenty years of age. The vast majority of answers range from nineteen years to twenty-five years.

Many deal in fractions, many in round numbers, and all think they're right—naturally. Here's the problem: try your hand at it:

Among the witnesses in a recent case in a city court was a woman who had been called to tell of the quarrel which led up to a hair-pulling affair between two of her neighbors in a big tenement house.

She took the stand and was sworn, and counsel for the defendant asked her name.

"Jane Symonds," she answered.

"How old are you?" asked the lawyer.

"Well," responded the witness, "I am the oldest of the family. There are fifteen of us, and there is just a year and a half exactly between the birthdays. I am just eight times the age of my little sister Eva, who is the youngest of the family. You can figure it out for yourself."

The Court and the lawyers are still figuring. See if you can make it out, and if you think your answer is correct send it to Puzzle Editor, BOSTON AMERICAN, No. 80 Summer street, Boston.

BY DIVISION

THERE are fifteen children and one and one-half years between their ages: 15x1½ equals 22½ years. Divide 22½ years by 8 equals 22.5 years divided by 8 equals 28⅛ years, or Jane's age.

FRANCES MULLANE.
No. 112 Saratoga street, Lawrence.

IS THIS CORRECT?

HERE is my solution. Jane Symonds is eighteen and two-thirds years old. Her small sister is two and one-third years old.

HELEN BULLARD.
No. 286 Jewett street, Manchester, N. H.

COME AGAIN

JANE, the oldest, is 21 years old; little Eva, the youngest, is 2 years and 7½ months old. I have arrived at the answer as follows: There being just 1½ years difference in their ages, or 18 months, would make the oldest 14 times 18 months, or 252 months—21 years. One-eighth of 21 years, or 162 months, is 31½ months equals 2 years and 7½ months, the age of the youngest. Come again!

OTTO R. WRIGHT.
Portland, Me.

DOES 3x8 EQUAL 22?

JANE is 22 years old and her youngest sister is 3. This must be correct.

EDITH LANCELOT.
No. 61 Congress street, Salem.

YES, VERY NEAR

JUST allow me to solve your problem. Jane is 22½ years old. Eva is 2 years 9 months 22 days 19¼ hours. I guess that comes very near it. She may be older now.

DANIEL STEWART.
No. 40 Roxbury street, Roxbury.

PROBLEM IN DIVISION

JANE is 21. Eva is 2⅝ years. I worked it as follows: There are fifteen in the family, with 1½ years between each birthday. Now 14 times 1½ equals 21 years. Jane is 8 times Eva's age; so divide 21 by 8 equals 2 5 8.

ALICE M. SCHUMANN.
No. 105 Boylston street, Jamaica Plain.

IN DECIMALS

AS eighteen months represents the delay between births, fifteen times delay represents Jane's Summers and Winters, i. e., twenty-two years six months—or, 22.5 divided by 8 equals 2.8125 years—Eva's age.

HERBERT CARTER.
No. 129 Pembroke street.

JANE IS A GIRL

MY answer to Jane's age is 12 years, as there are 15 in the family and just a year and a half between the birthdays (not between each child), and as Jane is eight times older than the youngest, who must be 1½ years. Then naturally her age must be eight times 1½, which leaves her 12 years.

What to Wear and How to Wear It

THE collar is the source of endless annoyance. A simple method for making it "stand up" is to make at each side of the collar two tiny slanting pockets, and one at the back of the neck where the collar fastens.

Soak a whalebone (the genuine article) in tepid water until it becomes soft enough to cut easily. Cover the bit which has been cut the desired height with a linen tape and slip into the slanting pockets on each side and the straight one at the back.

Equip each shirt waist with these pockets and the whalebones can be easily slipped into place with but little trouble.

Fine, hand-embroidered linen belts are finished at the loop end with a buttonhole. A button is sewed on the inside of the belt, and can be easily changed to any desired size. Often the eyelets for the "tongue" of the buckle do not give the necessary room, or give too much, and this reserve button is more practical.

For the first Fall days, dainty lingerie or linen collars and cuffs brighten up the Fall jacket wonderfully and are extremely becoming and jaunty.

Brown is to be one of the popular Fall shades for veils, belts, gloves, furs, hats, and dresses, and one will be perfectly safe in selecting this color in all shades, from palest brown to the deepest chocolate.

The lingerie dress is to be an important adjunct for the Winter's wardrobe, and as a house gown or simple dinner dress will be much worn.

TO CLEAN BROOMS

TO cleanse brooms may be rarely thought necessary, but washed occasionally they will be found to last far longer than otherwise. About once a week prepare a good lather of hot water and soap, and into it dip the broom; shake it until it is nearly dry, and hang it up, with the bristles downward, until quite dry.

ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN

By Beatrice Fairfax

HARDLY A COMPLIMENT

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

While conversing with a friend I said that I never intended to marry. He replied in a very sarcastic way, "You look it."

Now, Miss Fairfax, will you please tell me if this is a compliment?

E. M. C.

NO, I hardly think his answer sounded complimentary, though, of course, much depends on the way in which it was made. I think he was merely trying to be funny and succeeded in being rude.

LOVE'S DIFFICULTIES

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

While spending a few weeks in New York last Winter I met a young lady whom I liked very much, and we wrote to each other after I left New York, and I have been down since to see her. So at last our friendship led to love, and she writes to me nearly every day. I don't know what I would do if I should have to stop keeping company with her.

My parents do not want me to keep going with this young lady, as she has not rich parents, but otherwise I cannot see any reason, only she is not very strong.

Kindly let me know what I should do, as I intend to leave my home if they don't stop. I have tried several times to stop them from being so angry about it, but they will not.

S. F. G.

YOU seem to be having a hard time. I agree with you that the girl's poverty should be no bar to your marrying her. I think the thing to do would be to talk to your parents plainly. Tell them that you love the girl and cannot give her up, and that you would also hate to give them up, but that you cannot be happy at home unless they give up talking against her.

Hearst's Boston American Pattern

A Smart Suit For the Little Man

No. 5,677—Few styles for little boys have so much to recommend them as the Russian modes, and they are especially attractive when made with a broad collar. The one here pictured is in white pique. The closing is effected invisibly on the left side under a deep tuck, and a pretty addition are the straps of the material fastened with pearl buttons. The sleeves are in sailor style, plaited to cuff depth, and a high standing band completes the neck. Serge, linen, duck and the mercerized fabrics are all popular for the making. For a child of five years 2 yards of material 36 inches wide will be required.

No. 5,677—Sizes for 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 years.

How Young Husbands Can Solve the Mother-in-Law Problem

Don't Go Around With a Chip on Your Shoulder Looking for Trouble in Everything She Says or Does

By Dorothy Dix

YOU would like to know how to treat your mother-in-law, son.

It is a parlous question.

The only perfectly reliable recipe, that is sure to work, for getting along peaceably, amicably and agreeably with her is for your mother-in-law to live in San Francisco while you are settled in Boston, or for her to abide in Montreal while you are located in New Orleans.

However, the long distance aids toward settling the problem are only for the blest.

Most men have to tackle the problem at short range, and few there be that settle it satisfactorily.

Personally, I extend my condolences to the man who has to live with his mother-in-law, no matter if she is a perfect saint on earth.

Indeed, the more saint, the deeper the condolences, for there is no one else more trying to live with than an old lady who doesn't smoke, drink, gamble, or stay out nights, and who has a sacred mission to reform the world.

The domestic pie is one that ought never to have but two fingers in it, and when the third is thrust in, even with the best intention, it generally makes a mess of things.

The Best Remedy

EVERY mother thinks that her daughter ought to be married to a man who can give her automobiles and diamonds, who waits on her hand and foot, and who never has any will of his own whatever.

She feels that her Maud is imposed upon if she has to perform the ordinary duties of a wife and mother, and she doesn't want any other man to treat her daughter as she wants her son to treat some other woman's daughter.

She can't help taking this point of view. Mothers are built that way, and this being the case a mother-in-law is bound to be a disturbing factor in any family.

This fact is officially proven by divorce statistics, which show that the original cause of disagreement between most couples generally originates in the mother-in-law.

Punch once declared that the best remedy for seasickness was to sit on a grassy knoll under an apple tree.

Similarly it may be said that the best way to live with a mother-in-law is to board her out, but for economic and other reasons this is not always practicable, and it is then up to the man who has to abide with her to make the best of the situation.

Easy to Tame Her

BEGIN then, son, by pulling mamma-in-law's claws by taming her. Show her little attentions. Make her like you. This will make things pleasanter all around, and will disarm her suspicion that you married her poor, dear child with the view of making a slave of her.

Sometimes virtue is its own reward, and there are cases on record where mothers-in-law became so devoted to their sons-in-law that they supplemented the bungling housekeeping of their daughters with expert service and became veritable household treasures, who always saw that son-in-law's slippers were handy, buttons were on his shirts and the things he liked to eat on the table.

Who knows but what this rich reward may be yours, and that the bread you cast upon the waters may return to you in pies such as your own mother used to make.

Do not go about with a chip upon your shoulder, son, looking for offence in everything that mother-in-law says or does.

Don't resent her every suggestion. She has a good deal more experience of life than you and Maud have, and if you will take heed to her counsel you will find that it will be money in your pocket.

Be Respectful

BE grateful for what she does for you, son. You may feel that under ordinary circumstances you could bear her absence from the family circle with Christian fortitude, but remember the halo that enveloped her the day when she came in to take charge of a disorganized household where the wife was sick, the cook gone, the children down with the measles, and you had been helplessly wrestling with a crying baby and a smoking stove.

She didn't look like an interloper then. She lo d like a guardian angel, with soothing syrup in its hand.

A fat, grizzled, triple-chinned old lady may not be a shining ornament in the house in times of prosperity, but when Old Man Trouble has you by the throat you would rather see that homely old countenance around than the Venus de Medici.

Be gentle to her idiosyncrasies, son; be respectful to her prejudices. Be tender to her feelings. Be reverent to her beliefs.

It may be that her views are narrow and old fashioned. No doubt her prejudices are illogical. Perhaps her opinions are childish. It will not be long before you will be old yourself, son, and will seem to another generation as archaic as she seems to you.

The old are very sensitive and the young are very cruel. Remember that, when you are tempted to deride mother-in-law's views on the temperance question or the suppression of wax figures in the show windows in the interest of morality.

MIXED MARMALADE

TAKE equal quantities of white apples, yellow pears and white plums, pare and cut in small pieces, stew in a little water until soft, then strain through a sieve. Weigh or measure the fruit and add nearly as much sugar as fruit. Now cook until thick, stirring constantly, as it will easily burn. When thick turn into shallow pans and slice when ready for use. It could also be put into cans, from which you could easily turn it out and then slice for Winter use.

MRS. E. M. CHASE.
No. 111 Third street, W. Manchester, N.H.

LIGHTNING CAKE

SIFT together four times one and one-half cups of flour, one cup sugar, two teaspoons baking powder and a pinch of salt. Melt one-third cup of butter, break into the batter two eggs, and fill the cup with milk. Pour these into the sifted flour and sugar without beating. Stir together quickly and thoroughly. Flavor with lemon or vanilla, and bake in a quick oven.

Plainville. MRS. H. G. BACON.

SPICED CURRANTS

TO every pound of currants allow one pound of sugar. Make a syrup in the proportion of four pounds of sugar to one pint of vinegar, two teaspoons of cinnamon, two of allspice and one of cloves, half a teaspoon of mace and half of salt. When boiling add the currants and boil twenty minutes. Put it into tumblers and stand aside to get cold, then cover with paper.

MRS. M. R. THOMPSON.
No. 118 Sheva street, Lowell.

COLD CATSUP

TO one peck of ripe tomatoes, peeled, chopped fine and drained well, add one cup each of salt, sugar, whole mustard seed, celery, chopped fine, onions, chopped fine, grated horseradish. Add one green pepper (chopped) 3 cups vinegar. Stir well and bottle. Do not heat.

MRS. L. L. ROGERS.
No. 22 Fountain street, Orange.

SWEET CUCUMBER PICKLES

PARE ripe cucumbers, scrape out all of the seeds and cut them length ways in two pieces. Sprinkle salt over them and let them remain over night. In the morning scald them in vinegar and water. When this is done place them in clear vinegar, allowing one cup and a half of sugar to a quart of vinegar, putting in three teaspoons of cinnamon, two of ground cloves and let them boil until tender. They are delicious.

TIPS ON CARE OF THE HAIR

NO hair needs to be shampooed oftener than once in three weeks. And then the work should not be done too vigorously. The hair should be wet, after which some soap jelly is spread upon it.

This is given time to dry on. It is then washed with a shampoo of warm soft water. That is the most thorough shampoo. But there are others, and the best is the egg shampoo.

The hair is wet and two eggs are rubbed into it, the yolks only. It is shampooed in a dozen waters, so as to rinse it well, after which it is dried and aired. This is very good for the hair.

There are old-fashioned demure faces that require a style of hair dressing all their own. The hair is parted in the old sweet way. And it is rolled back from the face on each side.

The hair is twisted low in the back of the neck and a curl is pinned in. This falls over the neck and shoulder. A rose is pinned on the curl and another rose is pinned in the hair just in the centre of the parting.

"SHADOWS OF NEW YORK"

By Sidney Warwick

CHAPTER CXX.—Continued

Copyright, 1906, by American-Journal-Examiner.

"I THOUGHT so, and I like you for it, my lad. Now, for her sake, do you think you could summon up courage to go back and face the Rumfits?" asked the inspector, looking hard at Jim.

"You don't mean to go back to stay?" cried the boy quickly.

The other smiled.

"No, hardly that; not for longer than an hour, maybe; perhaps not for more than five minutes. Have you got the pluck to do it, kid? I think you have."

Jim made a determined gulp.

"Yus, I'll go—for her. Why, I offered to go to the cop who took her this morning at Yonkers. I know they'll want to jest about thrash the life out of me when they see me," said Jim, thinking of how he had tricked Rumfit and the others in the matter of the diamond, and by no means enjoying the prospect of returning to face the music, but summoning all his pluck. "But I'll do it."

"And we shall be outside, you know, Jim; you'll be all right. Now, what I want you to do is this. You are to find out whether the other stiletto, the fellow to the one you recognized, is still where you saw it in Rumfit's place, and if so to give us the tip so that we can go straight to it. Catch on?"

"I see, sir," cried Jim eagerly. "I'm jest to see if the stiletto's still in the back room, and to clear as soon as I like when I've spotted it."

"Exactly."

"I shall have to do some acting like, so they won't guess why I've come," said Jim, proudly. "When am I to go?"

"This afternoon. As soon as you've finished your dinner, my boy."

"And if you find that other dagger there, sir, she—she'll get off," cried Jim, eagerly, thinking of Olga.

The inspector laughed.

"Mustn't ask me to reveal professional secrets, my boy! But you're a good lad to think of the woman who was kind to you, and I think I can promise you this—that if we do find the stiletto there it may help her case a lot!"

Rather more than an hour later found Jim in front of Mr. Rumfit's shop in Brooklyn.

It was not without an inward quaking that the boy pushed open the door and entered the shop. He made his way through the crowded medley of curiosities and old furniture, past the great squat Chinese joss towards the back parlor.

The door of the parlor opened, and Mother Rumfit put her head out, as the shop bell rang; and the first look of amazement changed to a grin of malice.

"Daddy! If there isn't that young scamp Jim come back!" she announced, in her shrill voice.

She stood waiting by the door of the back room, and Jim's knees felt a decided tendency to knock together as he glanced at the sharp featured face, with the thin lips drawn into an unpleasant smile, revealing the yellow uneven teeth, and the small, ferrety eyes that were gleaming with a suggestion of malevolent gratification.

In the Lion's Jaws

Only the thought of Olga gave Jim the pluck to go forward into the lion's jaws.

"I—I've come back," faltered Jim.

"Oh, you've come back, have you?" said Mrs. Rumfit, with a sniff that made the pink rose on her bonnet nod violently. She was dressed as though she had been on the point of going out when Jim arrived.

Contrary to his expectation, she did not attempt to strike him, though it plainly cost her a strong effort of self-repression not to do so, and allowed him to pass into the back room.

There, in his greasy old armchair, sat the fat man with the flabby cheeks and dull fish-like eyes, whose wrath the boy feared even more than Mrs. Rumfit's.

"Oh, so you thought you'd come back, my boy?" said Rumfit deliberately, with a malignant gleam in his dull eyes; while Mrs. Rumfit closed the door and stood in front of it—not unlike one of the china dragons in the shop—leaving Jim with the sudden feeling that he was trapped.

"Yes; I—I run away becos I was afraid of the Farmer—and"——began Jim in a quavering voice.

"You found that after living on the fat of the land here, it wasn't pleasant to go short of vittles, you young glutton, eh? Thought you'd come and do the pitiful to them whose kindness you rewarded with such ingratitude that I couldn't have believed it—did you?" cried Rumfit, with a look of intense malice.

"And I was wanting to see you, my boy. Come here!"

Instead of obeying the invitation, Jim backed away.

"Come here!" roared Rumfit, furiously. "You young imp, you spoiled the best bit of luck that ever came our way, and ran off with that diamond—and you have the impudence to come whining back! You'll have cause to whine, my lad.

"And it's through you that Jarman's gone and broke with us—the most promising of the lot, and with a future before him, if he'd only stuck to it—he gone and turned honest, gone off to start a new life or some sich nonsense—all because of your stealing that diamond, you young whelp," cried Rumfit, in a towering passion.

"But, by Heaven, you'll rue it bitterly. Come here! You've had a few thrashings in your time—but never such a one as you're in for now."

He was in no hurry to carry out his threat. He felt he had the boy secure; he was taking a savage enjoyment in thinking how he would make the lad scream for mercy. It would prolong the agony to terrify Jim first.

Desperate Chances

It must be admitted that Jim was feeling very far from happy.

He knew that his old tyrant would keep his threat to the letter, unless he managed to make good his escape first—and he was too plucky and determined to do that until he had carried out the purpose for which he had ventured there.

Mrs. Rumfit stood guard in front of the door leading into the shop, but there was another door in the room that opened on to the passage, and he would have to trust to getting through that and through the side door into the street.

If only he were not overtaken and captured before he got the side door open!

Jim slowly backed to the corner, where, among the curious jumble of miscellaneous articles that had overflowed from the shop, he remembered to have last seen the case containing the remaining stiletto, and cast a hasty, nervous glance around; there, to his intense relief, he saw the case lying half open, and in it the stiletto was lying—just where Jarman had thrown it the other night, after his questions about the weapon that had so interested him.

Just as Jim's eyes fell upon it, the fat man, who, when he chose, could, in spite of his enormous size, move as quickly and stealthily as a cat, suddenly sprang to his feet, and came swiftly toward the boy, who backed precipitately, in his haste putting one foot through the dusty glass case containing the stuffed swordfish.

TO BE CONTINUED.

TRAIN CHILDREN TO WORK

ALL children should be given some work to do, some trivial duty to perform regularly, and they should be taught to do it willingly and without whimpering. Train your children to wait upon themselves and to keep their toys and playthings tidy and in their proper places.

It is a good plan to teach a child to play with one toy at a time, and when that is tired of to replace it before a fresh one is taken. Then, instead of a litter of things to be tidied and put away at bedtime, or when the little one has tired of playing, there is simply one toy that can be quickly cleared away.

When a child returns from a walk teach him to put his outdoor garments neatly away in the place allotted to them. This early training will be of great use to him as he grows older and will help to form and strengthen his character.

Red Nose and Red Veins

The Cause and Cure of These Humiliating Facial Troubles.

THESE afflictions are not always an indication of drink. Digestive troubles will cause a red nose more quickly than alcohol. We examine every case thoroughly and administer treatment to remove the cause. The redness then quickly disappears. In the most severe cases, when the nose and face are filled with small red veins, our scientific treatments are used with unfailing success. This work is all done under the personal direction of specialists who have made this trouble a particular study.

Our Home Treatment.

For those who are unable to call at any of our offices for attention, our system of home treatment was inaugurated. This department is under the personal care of experienced physicians. Every case is diagnosed by a specialist. All remedies are carefully prepared, and full and definite instructions are given. This system enables us to place our vast experience within the reach of all; no matter what the distance from our office may be. By this method we successfully treat Red Nose, Pimples, Blackheads, Enlarged Pores, Freckles, Superfluous Hair, Moles, Warts, Falling Hair, Dandruff and similar troubles.

Big Piano Bargains
Roxbury Storage Salesrooms

Swell Bargains This Week. The prices on the well-known standard high class makes quoted below will not be changed for at least six days. Many fine new and second-hand uprights of other quality first-grade makers will go for so little that you would hardly believe the prices if we quoted them.

Don't Pay Piano Trust Big Profits

Just remember that we pay no commissions of any kind. We have no high rents to pay, no big agents' or retailers' profits to get out of you, no teachers' little "Rake off" to take out of your pocket. All these sums of money must be added to the original legitimate profit of the maker when you buy a piano at the Gilded Piano Warerooms down in the High Rent District—and remember you pay it all.

PROPOSALS.

CITY OF BOSTON — Sanitary Department — Sealed proposals for the collection and removal of house offal from the Dorchester District, as shown on the official map on file at the office of the Superintendent of the Sanitary Department, will be received at the office of the Superintendent of the Sanitary Department until 12 m., Monday, October 15, 1906, at which time and place they will be publicly opened and read. The offal is to be collected and delivered daily at the pocket on Freeport street. The contract is to cover a term of one year, or unless a different system of collection is adopted. Form of contract may be seen at the office of the Sanitary Department, Room No. 920, Tremont Building. The contractor must furnish the horses and men, and the City of Boston will furnish the carts. Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check for $100.00 and a bond with a surety company authorized to do business in Massachusetts as surety will be required for the faithful performance of the contract. The undersigned reserves the right to give preference to the proposals of bidders agreeing to pay union rates of wages, and the right to reject any or all proposals, should he deem it for the interest of the city so to do. DANIEL H. GILLESPIE, Superintendent of the Sanitary Department. Boston, Mass., Oct. 3, 1906.

80 AND 82 SUMMER ST., BOSTON, OCTOBER 4, 1906

Chinese Labor at Nine Cents an Hour— WILL YOU VOTE FOR IT?

You Cannot Escape the Issue. You Have Got to Vote FOR Chinese Labor or AGAINST Chinese Labor This Fall

Before Election Day we purpose to impress thoroughly upon our readers one of the issues of this campaign which Republicans will do their best to avoid.

They shall NOT avoid it, however. THE WELFARE OF THE COUNTRY DEMANDS THAT THE PEOPLE'S FOOT BE PUT UPON THE HEAD OF THIS PARTICULAR SNAKE NOW, THE FIRST TIME FOR MANY YEARS, THAT IT APPEARS AMONG US.

Every American workingman who smokes a cigar or a pipe, every man who drinks a glass of beer, PAYS SOMETHING TO HELP DIG THE PANAMA CANAL.

THE MONEY of American workers builds the Panama Canal, THE ARMS OF AMERICAN WORKINGMEN OUGHT TO DIG THAT CANAL.

What has been done by the Republican Administration? First, some of the colored population of the Island of Jamaica were put to work. The wages paid were shameful—EIGHTY CENTS A DAY. No effort was made to insure health for workers. The idea was to let out the work of digging the canal to contractors, THAT THEY MIGHT MAKE A PROFIT.

Already five thousand Chinese coolies have been hired to dig and to earn your money. The contractors will make fine profits, FOR THESE WRETCHED, MISERABLE CHINAMEN ARE TO BE WORKED FOR NINE CENTS AN HOUR EACH.

And out of that nine cents per hour must come the profit of the slave-driver who supplies the Chinese coolie labor to our Government.

Now, readers, we tell you to-day what we shall tell you often.

The Republicans of the United States Government hired five thousand Chinese laborers. They have bid for them like cattle, and hired them like cattle. They pay nine cents an hour for their labor. THEY PERMIT THEM TO BRING THEIR WIVES AND THEIR FAMILIES WITHIN A FEW MILES OF OUR DOORS, RIGHT CLOSE TO TEXAS, TO NEW ORLEANS.

Do you know what that example must mean in this country? Do you know THAT THE PROSPERITY OF THIS COUNTRY WOULD DIE WITHIN A YEAR IF YOU HAD THE FREE COMPETITION OF THE CHINESE?

Do you know that certain newspapers representing the Trusts are already clamoring for Chinese labor?

If you don't know it, you WILL know it, for we shall quote from typical Trust newspapers that demand Chinese labor.

One of them the other day said: "The railroads of the United States need fifty thousand Chinese laborers."

DO YOU think that the railroads of this country need fifty thousand Chinese laborers? Or do you believe that the railroads of this country should be managed not alone for the selfish few that take the profits on watered stocks, but for the people that travel, for the people whose industry makes the railroads possible?

Don't you know that if this action of the United States Government is to go unrebuked, every great corporation will use its influence, with the PRECEDENT OF THE GOVERNMENT behind it, to get Chinese labor?

Don't you know that business prosperity depends upon the amount of money the ordinary man can spend; don't you know that our enormous prosperity is due to the fact that our workers are well paid, that they have money to spend in stores and for homes?

Do you not realize that fifty thousand Chinamen in this country would mean a lowering of wages, that a hundred thousand would mean a further lowering of wages, that free Chinese labor would mean RUIN!

You have got to vote against Chinese labor THIS FALL, or you will have a bitter fight against it later on, and bitter repentance later on.

The "Old-Time Democrat" Who Is a Republican

The "old-time Democrat" who objects to Democracy is a familiar figure. The country has become well acquainted with him during the past ten years.

His fundamental objection to his party is that it is not Republican. Real Democratic principles are highly objectionable to him.

When his party declares for the welfare of the masses, as against the interests of the classes, he bolts. Hence it is that he has almost forgotten when he voted the Democratic ticket.

He still calls himself a Democrat, and has himself interviewed as one, and wishes it to be understood by the public that his ballot, for this occasion only, is lost to the Democracy.

As a matter of fact, he regards equal rights as a dangerous innovation. The country is going to the dogs if the masses are to be given a chance not merely to govern but to keep what belongs to them, either as small merchants, manufacturers or workingmen.

He is an instinctive believer in privilege—the privilege of the well-to-do and socially high placed to pouch what others produce. He is not a Democrat at all and never was, though he has labelled himself as one.

Human society, it has been happily said, is made up of those who make things and those who take things.

The "old-time Democrat" is with the latter always. He is in reality an old-time Tory. Ancestry, family habit, environment, or what not, has caused him to classify himself as a Democrat—but he takes to the Republican party as a duck does to water.

When did the "old-time Democrat" side with his party when his party stood for things democratic?

Not within the memory of men whose political activity reaches even as far back as 1896.

The "old-time Democrat," in actual fact, is an active Republican, and as good a friend at the polls as the trusts and their allies can find anywhere.

Politically, he is a humbug, and the best thing that can be said about him is that he doesn't know it. He is one of the best and most faithful friends of the Plunderbund.

HIGH NOON

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

ELLA WHEELER WILCOX.

TIME'S finger on the dial of my life
Points to high noon! and yet the half-spent day
Leaves less than half remaining, for the dark
Bleak shadows of the grave engulf the end.
To those who burn the candle to the stick,
The sputtering socket leaves but little light;
Long life is sadder than an early death.
We cannot count on rivelled threads of age
Whereof to weave a fabric. We must use
The warp and woof the ready present yields,
And toil while daylight lasts. When I unblink
How brief the past, the future, still more brief.
Calls on to action, action! Not for me
Is time for retrospection or for dreams,
Not time for self-laudation or remorse.
Have I done nobly? Then I must not let
Dead yesterday unbem to-morrow shame.
Have I done wrong? Well, let the bitter taste
Of fruit that turned to ashes on my lip
Be my reminder in temptation's hour,
And keep me silent when I would condemn.
Sometimes it takes the acid of a sin
To cleanse the clouded windows of our souls,
So pity may shine through them.

Looking back,
My faults and errors seem like stepping-stones
That led the way to knowledge of the truth,
And made me value virtue; sorrows shine
In rainbow color o'er the gulf of years,
Where lie forgotten pleasures.

Looking forth,
Out in the western sky, still bright with noon,
I feel well spurred and booted for the strife
That ends not till Nirvana is attained.
Battling with fate, with men and with myself,
Up the steep summit of my life's forenoon,
Three things I learned, three things of precious worth.
To guide and help me down the western slope.
I have learned how to pray, and toil, and save;
To pray for courage to receive what comes,
Knowing what comes to be divinely sent;
To toil for universal good, since thus,
And only thus, can good come unto me;
To save, by giving whatso'er I have
To those who have not—this alone is gain.

Fashion Notes for Men

VESTS, with or without collars, will be worn from now on by most of the sterner sex. Except when worn in the Subway, they will be buttoned close up to the chin.

* * *

For the football games, soon to begin, overcoats and chrysanthemums have the call, as in former years. Those who removed their collars at the baseball games this Summer will now be compelled by the combined orders of Dame Fashion and Jack Frost to keep them on.

* * *

A few, of our most prominent bookmakers and barbers are wearing large diamond scarfpins. By the time the racing season is over it is expected that the bookmakers will have them all.

Red cravats of various sizes are being displayed in many of the Chelsea stores.

Little Editorials from the People

WELCOME THE INDEPENDENCE LEAGUE

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Many problems confront the American people at the next election for President, the issue of which will affect the material welfare of the people for all time to come. I think it is conceded by many that we have departed from the road laid down by the fathers of the Republic, and due, no doubt, to the legislation adopted by the Republican party since the Civil War. Prior to that unfortunate event we knew something of the true principles of democracy, but high tariffs and class legislation, together with the rapid increase of wealth in the hands of a few individuals, have in the years which have followed wrested power from the people and widened the gulf, so to speak, between the rich and poor.

It is to be hoped if the Republic is to continue something will be done to change the present condition of affairs, for in the minds of many the shadow of a dictatorship, or something infinitely worse, is looming up on the political horizon. Let all welcome the Independence League into the political field, and let every independent voter give it his support.
